

GERMANY EMERGES FROM FINANCIAL HYSTERIA DESPITE COMMUNIST PROGRAM OF DISORDER

Committee Approves Bill To Abolish Fulton Board

SPECIAL ELECTION ON SEPTEMBER 15 IS PROVIDED FOR

Vigorous Attack on Proposal to Create New Three-Man Board Is Launched by Representative Luther Still.

MINORITY REPORT TO BE SUBMITTED

Action of Fulton Member To Throw Bill on House Floor for Further Action.

Legislation to abolish the present five-man Fulton county commission and to create a new three-man board is to be introduced on September 15, and take effect in October, Tuesday afternoon was approved by the county and county matters committee of the house following a warm fight in which it was charged that the McRae-Eckford bills violate the principles of democratic local self-government.

Representative Luther Still, who conducted a vigorous protest against the bills, announced that he would submit a minority report, thus throwing the bill onto the floor of the house for further consideration.

The bills were reported favorably by a vote of 21 to 3, after a motion to adjourn the measures lost by a vote of 8 to 21. The ancient practice of legislative courtesy played its part in the committee vote, two of the Fulton delegation favoring the bills, and the third member opposing them, legislative courtesy providing for passage of local legislation when a majority of the local delegation supports the bill.

Election Provided.

Originally, the bill creating the new board named Edgar Chambers Sr., Arthur Brooke and F. L. Breen as the new commissioners, but an amendment by McRae requires a special election on September 15, announcement of candidacy to be made 10 days prior to the election.

The three-man commission measure provides for appointment of a commission clerk at $5,000 a year, and a superintendent of public roads at $6,000 a year, the latter to be a graduate of civil engineering at the University of Georgia or one of its branches. The board would be empowered with a number of restrictions, including the injunction that not more than 20 per cent of the county's revenue can be spent on roads.

Charges of extravagance and illegal appropriations were made against the county commission by McRae, who asserted that he and Eckford were elected on a platform pledging them to "break up the county ring." McRae centered a great deal of his attack on County Commissioner Walter B. Stewart, and introduced a photostatic copy of a court paper which, he said, showed that Stewart had signed a pauper's affidavit to avoid payment of court costs in a case.

Extravagance Charged.

"Many times in the history of Georgia it has been necessary for the legislature to take a hand in stopping county extravagance," Mr. McRae said. "I am sorry to say that day has come in Fulton. Since 1922 the commission has exercised its power to the detriment of the county's revenue. It is a situation that the taxpayers cannot long endure."

There are 1,088 county employees, and all but four have salaries fixed by the county commission. The four exceptions are the solicitor of the criminal court, the solicitor of the civil court, the judge of the city court and judge of the criminal court of Atlanta. The commission has exercised its power to the detriment and damage of the people. The salary bill in 1928 exceeded 50 per cent of the revenue, and in that year, the county auditors, in a 10-year survey, recommended that $25,000 in salaries be cut off. That was before the depression. In 1930, salaries were $2,089,585.56. The commission cut together at the first of 1930 and cut off $37,000. At a second meeting, they put back enough to reduce the cut to $17,000, and after a

Three Young Children Held As Violators of Dry Laws

Blanche Cobb, 11-year-old school girl, of a Gordon road address, who was arrested by county police Tuesday on a charge of delivering whisky. Both Blanche and her mother, Mrs. Annie Cobb, have been placed under bond pending a hearing.

BY BEN CRISLER.

The "noble experiment" touched new heights Tuesday when, in place of hardened bootleggers, three children, one of them only 11 years old, were haled before the administrators of justice.

Something went wrong in the laboratories of idealism, it seems, when Blanche Cobb, the youngest, a brown eyed, black haired little beauty, and a pupil in the county schools, was taken into custody by county officers at her home on Gordon road, six miles from Atlanta. The charge was selling whisky.

That she had been sent for whisky, as she might have been sent for a dipper of water, and that she had no choice but to obey, were circumstances that didn't seem to alter the case. The "noble experiment," with its head among the clouds, cannot be blamed if it crushes a child every now and then. She was paroled by juvenile court authorities pending investigation.

Edward Awtry, 13, who lives on the Bolton road, was another criminal who, according to an anonymous purchaser, was sent by his father, John Awtry, to get whisky. The boy, not knowing that the prohibition law was in force, got two county jail sentences at those points where the two may come in conflict, obeyed. He was said to have been committed to the juvenile detention home till his case

COMPROMISE PLAN OF REDISTRICTING IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Sub-Committee Action Calls for Contests Between Crisp, Vinson and Rutherford, Larsen.

An agreement on redistricting the 101 counties of Georgia, cutting congressional units from twelve to ten, which—if all members run again—pits Representatives Crisp and Vinson against each other in the new tenth and Representatives Rutherford and Larsen against each other in the revamped sixth, was reached by the joint subcommittee on congressional reapportionment late Tuesday night.

The agreement represents a compromise on the plan of Senator Jeff Davis and Representative Joe Johnson and is, essentially, a concession in part to both Representatives L. Thomas Gillen, of Bibb, and Carl Nelson, of Laurens, who had introduced the two most seriously considered plans before the subcommittee.

As in all plans which have been proposed, with the exception of the Fulton county plan, the fifth district will include Fulton, DeKalb and Campbell. Rockdale, which has been in the fifth, goes to the new tenth and Douglas into the new seventh.

Six Districts Unchanged.

Lines of the old first, old eleventh (now eighth), the old second, the old seventh, the old ninth and the old fifth—barring the elimination of two counties in this district—remain practically intact.

An interesting feature of the committee agreement, which came in the first meeting after an agreement appeared doubtful, was that the authors of the two most widely considered plans—Representatives Gillen and Nelson—had agreed for the congressional districts in their respective districts to fight it out and see which one of four had to quit the halls of congress.

It is possible, too, that there may be some doubt, was that the authors of the two most widely considered plans—Representatives Gillen and Nelson—had agreed for the congressional districts in their respective districts to fight it out and see which one of four had to quit the halls of congress.

The compromise over the new tenth gives to Representative Brand a slight advantage over the first plan proposed in that it gets two counties, Rockdale and Newton, in the northern section of the state, which had heretofore been in the ninth district.

Agreement on a bill which will have to be passed on by a full committee is due in considerable measure to the insistence of Representative W. Glenn Thomas of Wayne, who successfully urged a decision Tuesday night.

Thomas was moved to expedite the agreement in view of widespread reports that the redistricting committee could not agree and would leave the situation so that all races would have to be from the state at large. There has been some rumors that reorganization legislation was not to get attention until after the reorganization bills were out of the way.

New Districts.

The new districts, approved by the subcommittee, are:

First District—McIntosh, Long, Liberty, Bryant, Chatham, Effingham, Screven, Burke, Jenkins, Bulloch, Camden, Evans, Thomas, Talbot.

Second District—Seminole, Decatur, Grady, Thomas, Brooks, Colquitt, Tift, Worth, Dougherty, Mitchell, Bibb, Wilkes, Early, Wilcox.

Third District—Clay, Randolph.

Ralph McGill Appointed Constitution Sports Head

RALPH MCGILL.

The Constitution announces the appointment of Ralph McGill as Sports Editor, effective today.

Mr. McGill succeeds Ed Danforth, who, for the past few years, has had charge of this department and who voluntarily retires. He has not yet announced his new connection. Mr. Danforth leaves The Constitution with the best wishes of the entire staff.

Enjoying a national reputation as a sports authority and combining with this a warmth of personality that has won for him a host of friends, Ralph McGill's connection with The Constitution has brought him an enthusiastic following second to no one else in the south.

Refusing to specialize on any one form of sports, Mr. McGill, formerly sports editor of the Nashville Banner, is a recognized expert in all of its various branches. His exceptional talents as a writer—his vivid, attractive style, his engaging humor—enable him to give his readers descriptions and interpretations that may be called the very ultimate in sports reporting.

EDUCATION BOARD ABOLITION SOUGHT; FUND HIKE ASKED

Five-Member Board of Trustees Proposed; 30 Per Cent of City's Revenue Recommended.

Two widely divergent proposals for operation of the Atlanta public school system, a perennial problem of the borough government, were advocated Tuesday as two bodies of the government sought a solution of the system's troubles.

Council Monday will be asked to approve a paper to abolish the present board, to set up a board of trustees of five, similar to that now operating Grady hospital, and to abrogate present charter amendments making it mandatory on the borough to allocate 26 per cent of all revenues for operation of the department. This measure was approved by the finance committee after having been referred to it when Councilman George L. Loe, of the 11th ward, presented it several weeks ago.

The second solution was evolved at the meeting of the board of education itself, and among other things provides that the present ward representation be maintained, that the 26 per cent mandatory clause be amended to 30 per cent, and that the borough controller be forced to render a certified account of the government's receipts to the board.

Under the Loe measure, the mayor and the chairman of the schools committee of council would be ex-officio members of the board of trustees, which would be selected by the mayor. One member of the board would be named for one year, two for two years and two for three years at the first naming. At the expiration of their first service, all others would be elected for three-year terms.

Both Charter Amendments.

Both measures will require charter amendments and administrative officials, it was said, will never approve any paper providing for allocation of 30 per cent of the gross revenue of the borough, extending that other than the measure could not possibly operate if such a measure were sanctioned.

The finance committee at a Tuesday night session considered the proposals with the report of a special committee headed by Alderman G. Everett Millican, which recommended slashing the salaries of council members, the pay rolls and cutting of about $1,000,000 a year from governmental expenses.

Virtually every department of the borough government was represented at the hearings held during the day. Department heads for the most part reiterated contents of letters filed with the finance committee. B. Graham West, comptroller, setting out that it would be impossible to effect any savings by cutting employees because the services given the public would be curtailed to an extent where it would be impossible to operate efficiently or effectively.

Body New Again.

After spending practically the entire day in a study of the Millican committee report, the finance committee adjourned late Tuesday night to meet again at 10 o'clock this morning at which time Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction, from which the Millican committee recommended the $1,000,000 annual saving; Pat Hendricks, superintendent of electrical affairs,

The German cabinet adjourned shortly before midnight without promulgating any of the emergency financial decrees it had planned to meet the country's financial exigencies. It promised action today.

Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, arrived at Paris and made no effort to deny that his visit was intended to help in reconciling French and German views on the Hoover war debt plan.

'LIES,' SAYS DUCE OF POPE'S ATTACK

Fascist Party Challenges Accuracy of Charges Made in Encyclical.

ROME, July 14.—(AP)—The directors of the fascist party, with Premier Mussolini at their head, tonight issued a long declaration in which they branded as "lies" the criticism of fascism by Pope Pius XI.

The declaration was issued after a five-hour session of the directorate. It implied that in his recent encyclical the pope "defamed" fascism. The declaration also initiated vigorous efforts to gather the entire youth of Italy into the fascist fold.

The directors decided to show the strength of fascism as a fighting and maneuvering force by a mobilization to be ordered some time soon, the date to be announced 48 hours in advance. The fascists will mass in northern Italy on the Pieve battle fields.

The directors met with Mussolini in his Palazzo Venezia office where he talked on Thursday with Colonel Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state.

Reports were presented showing that the party has a solid membership of 875,000 adults and 642,000 youths. Behind this active force there was said to be more than 2,000,000 in the juvenile organization, taking in boys from eight years up.

These figures, it was understood, were cited to indicate a steady growth in the party in recent months, presumably as the result of resignations from Catholic organizations.

The party's declaration was divided into three parts. These dealt with the pope's criticism of the oath, the fascist take to the duce, the pope's action in publishing his encyclical abroad and with general denials of the papal criticism and a declaration of the fascist determination forcibly to defend the party's work.

The directorate of the national fascist party, the statement declared, "protests strongly against the affirmations in the recent papal encyclical, according to which the oath of the Black Shirts is taken for bread, for career or for life."

"Black Shirts have demonstrated that they know how to renounce bread, career and even life when it is necessary for the country and for the fascist revolution."

"The fascist party springs, therefore, the grave attempts by which it is sought to depreciate its faith, already proven by sacrifices. The nation

ONE-MAN TROLLEY BAN IS RESTRAINED

Judge Signs Temporary Order; Cites "Irrecoverable Loss" Involved.

Atlanta's ban on one-man street cars will not go into effect at 6 o'clock this morning, under an order issued Tuesday by Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of the federal district court of the northern district of Georgia.

Judge Underwood signed a temporary restraining order at Gainesville, where he is holding court, and at the same time issued an eight-page opinion in which he said he was impelled to approve the application for a temporary injunction because the supreme court and the court of appeals for this district have held that where failure to grant such an order would cause an "irrecoverable loss," the trial court should issue an order protecting property.

Georgia Power Company officials filed a $5,000 bond along with the application for the order. No date for the hearing on the permanent injunction has yet been set. Judge Underwood informed The Constitution by long distance telephone.

Council passed the ordinance to force the company to put a motorman and conductor on the cars in the "interest of public safety and speed" over the protest of the company. The ban of the one-man street cars has been attacked as illegal and confiscatory.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the power company, said the one-man cars are speedier, safer and in every way perform their services better than the old-type two-man cars.

Albert Fall Tells His Story

BY ALBERT F. FALL.
(Copyright, 1931, by N. A. N. A., Inc.)

Editor's Note: Albert F. Fall, who goes to prison now for having accepted a bribe while he was secretary of the interior under President Harding, has written his own story of his experiences while he was in the cabinet. With Fall beginning his prison term, the narrative has special timeliness.

Fall writes entertainingly of the events which immediately followed Mr. Harding's nomination for the presidency. He gives an insight into cabinet making. He tells how Hoover, Mellon, Daugherty and others won their places. He gives an interesting "inside" picture of a peppy cabinet meeting. And, naturally, he goes behind the scenes of the oil scandal, which brought his downfall.

The Constitution does not present the series as a defense of this former secretary of the interior, though Fall, convicted and resigned to his term in prison, naturally gives his side of one of the biggest stories the country ever knew.

MILTON MERGER VOTED BY HOUSE

Bill Would Make Fulton Senatorial District; Road Refund Proposed.

Merger of Fulton and Milton counties was voted unanimously Tuesday by the Georgia house of representatives in adopting a bill offered by Representative Carlos V. Shirley, of Milton. Coincident with this action, Representative Homer Gullatt, of Campbell county, author of the Fulton-Campbell merger bill, introduced a measure making Fulton a separate senatorial district.

The bill providing for repayment of $25,365,625.08 to 152 Georgia counties as funds advanced to the highway board for road construction. The refunding of highway advances would begin in 1936 and would not exceed 10 per cent a year.

Fulton is now a part of the 35th district, which includes Clayton and Henry counties. With Campbell coming into Fulton on January 1, Gullatt says the county will be entitled to a separate senator.

The Milton merger bill provides for submitting the issue to the people. It has recently been opposed by the Fulton county grand jury.

The March term grand jury of Milton county already has recommended the merger. Mr. Shirley said Tuesday night. It is confidently expected that the August grand jury will do likewise, which would call for a special election in that county on the question of the merger.

MAN SHOT DOWN; WORKMAN JAILED

C. C. Daniel Is Attacked From Behind on Down- town Thoroughfare.

Shot down, he told police, by an acquaintance with whom he had just parted, apparently on friendly terms, Tuesday afternoon on Marietta street in front of the Federal Reserve Bank, C. C. Daniel, 38, of 540 Sunset avenue, N. W., was at Grady hospital Tuesday night with a 45-caliber bullet wound through his right hip.

Benjamin C. Trotter, of 2459 Harding street, Hapeville, Daniel's fellow worker, who is alleged to have fired the shot, was arrested at his home Tuesday night and held on suspicion. He denies the shooting.

According to police reports, Trotter opened fire from behind the bullet striking the fleshy part of the right thigh, and emerging from the front lower down. The shooting occurred shortly after 2 o'clock and created much excitement among pedestrians and motorists along the street.

Both men are cabinet workers employed by J. P. Womack & Son.

Daniel insisted he knew of no reason for the shooting. He told officers that Trotter, a former service man, appeared to be "unbalanced." They had talked together a few minutes at Broad and Marietta streets, and had parted without argument or without having disagreed.

Daniel said he had known Trotter four or five years.

Trotter, who lives at 3459 Harding street, Hapeville, was being sought by police Tuesday night. Daniel is married and is the father of three small children. Trotter has a wife and one child.

BY FREDERICK KUH.

BERLIN, July 14.—(UP)—Extremist took advantage of the uncertain financial and political situation in Germany tonight to announce plans for a nation-wide strike aimed to enforce measures allegedly for the benefit of the masses.

The proclamation was issued by the German communist party, with a membership of about 6,000,000. If the strike plans were intended to stampede the masses from a returning sense of relief and hope, they apparently failed to accomplish their purpose.

Berlin Quits Down.

Although Berlin appeared to be returning to a normal existence, in contrast to the panicky scenes of the past 48 hours when financial collapse seemed at hand, there were reports of violence from other parts of the country. At Neu Koeln fascists attacked rival groups on the streets and retreated to a restaurant after a brawl. Police entered the restaurant, searched the Nazis for arms, and arrested ten. The communist proclamation said that strikes would be called to enforce the following measures:

Confiscation of any savings deposits accounts exceeding 20,000 marks (about $4,700).

Guarantee of security for small depositors.

Confiscation of millionaire fortunes.

Forced resumption of work in all

RUSSELL CONSIDERS PLANS FOR ELECTION

Governor To Take No Immediate Action To Fill Edwards' Place.

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. has under advisement the matter of calling an election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Congressman Charles G. Edwards, of the first district, he said Tuesday.

Governor Russell indicated that he would not take immediate action, but probably would allow the matter to lie over for several days. He has not had time to study the law on elections to fill congressional vacancies, but will survey the statutes during the next few days, he said.

Attorney-General George M. Napier said that the code requires the governor to issue a writ of election in his discretion within a reasonable time. The writ is directed to the ordinaries of the counties in the district, and the ordinaries hold the election. Mr. Napier said. Although a primary is not mandatory, one could be held if the party officials desire, Mr. Napier added.

There is no immediate necessity of electing a successor, as congress does not meet again until December, it was pointed out.

A. M. E. MINISTERS HOLD JULY MEETING

The Atlanta A. M. E. Ministers' Union met in monthly session in Big Bethel church Tuesday, with Rev. R. J. Jefferson, D. D., president, presiding.

"The Christ's Conception of the Father," a paper offered by Rev. H. I. Bearden, caused the principal discussion at the meeting. Dr. H. D. Canady, presiding elder of the West Atlanta district, discussed the authenticity of the subject; Bishop W. A. Fountain, A. M. Ph.D., spoke on the genuineness and credibility of the writers of the New Testament on the subject, and admonished the ministers to study the Bible.

A committee from the Atlanta Baptist Union addressed the body and asked for a similar committee from the A. M. E. Ministers' Union to consider a civic question in behalf of the negroes of Atlanta. A body was formed, composed of Dr. B. G. Dawson, pastor of Big Bethel church; Bishop J. S. Flipper, D. D., and Dr. H. D. Canady.

Rev. J. A. Hopkins, secretary of the local committee on entertainment, addressed the union in behalf of the National Baptist convention which will bring more than 6,000 ministers and delegates here in September.

The ministers accepted an invitation to be the guests of the A. M. E. College at Forsyth on Thursday through President Hubbard and Dr. C. A. Wingfield, dean.

Dr. H. R. Tomlin, A. M. E. church, Portsmouth, Ohio; Rev. D. M. Miller, Baptist church, Philadelphia; Rev. E. D. Lawson, W. M. White, Atlanta, addressed the body on church co-operation.

FARM BUREAU HITS GRAIN SPECULATION

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Legislation to restrict speculative trading on grain exchanges again will receive the support of the American Farm Bureau Federation in the next congress.

The bureau has been behind the Capper-Dickinson bill. The measure will be reintroduced next winter and provides for limitation of any one operator's trading to 2,000,000 bushels a day and his long or short position to a similar amount.

President Hoover's arraignment of speculators who sell short in times of stress has brought demands for restriction. The grain futures administration of the agriculture department also favors the Capper-Dickinson proposal.

FORMER COAL SORTER NEW SEATTLE MAYOR

SEATTLE, Wash., July 14.—(AP)—

Robert Harlin was elected mayor of Seattle late today by the city council to succeed Frank Edwards, recalled yesterday by a city election.

Harlin's election followed a bitter controversy. Councilman Ralph Nienow declared he had been informed a $15,000 slush fund had been collected to influence the council to elect Harlin.

Charges of incompetency, involving in part the removal of J. D. Ross as city light superintendent, preceded the election in which Edwards was recalled. The council today reinstated Ross.

Harlin is a native of Pica, England, and was a coal sorter in an English mine at the age of 12.

Aimee To Become Grandmother Soon, Ma Kennedy Says

HERMOSA BEACH, Cal., July 14.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Hudson, the latter the mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, had their honeymoon cottage here today following an invasion of reporters, photographers, friends and jolly curiosity seekers.

They sought the cottage after their return from their recent marriage at Longview, Wash.

Mrs. Hudson declined to reveal their destination, but as her husband placed the last bags in their automobile, she gave out a few items of news.

In December, she said, she expected to become a great-grandmother, the happy event being anticipated in the home of Mrs. Roberta Semple Smythe, M. M. McPherson's pretty daughter, whose romantic wedding at Singapore to William Bradley Smythe, ship's purser, occurred early last spring.

Sometimes in the future Mr. and Mrs. Hudson expected to adopt "a nice little baby boy."

And Hudson has entered enthusiastically into his wife's plans to find a husband for Mrs. McPherson. Hudson said he even had the husband picked out—a personal friend, he amplified, whose introduction to the famous evangelist he intends to negotiate as soon as possible.

FIREMAN IS INJURED IN GLENN ST. BLAZE

Fireman M. F. Brewer, of Company 2, sustained a badly broken foot at Tuesday, when he was struck by a portion of a falling wall during a blaze which destroyed an occupied unit of a three-story brick warehouse at Stewart avenue and Glenn street.

Brewer was treated at Grady hospital and then allowed to return to his home, 894 York avenue, S. W.

The fire, origin of which was not determined, resulted in damage estimated at $12,000. Discovered by W. L. Traynham, whose estate owns the warehouse, the fire gained headway quickly and for a time threatened several other industrial structures in the vicinity.

Firemen succeeded in getting the blaze under control, but not until one unit of the two-story warehouse had been destroyed. Other units were occupied by the Southern Storage Warehouse Company and the Zachary-Horsley Company.

HAND OF 13 SPADES HELD BY ATLANTAN

One of those perfect bridge hands, said to fall once in the proverbial billion, was dealt to a player in a neighborly game at the home of his aunt, Mrs. R. E. Williams, at 201 Poplar Circle.

With 13 spades in his hand, Mr. Lloyd cautiously opened the bidding with one spade. Miss Martha Lloyd, his opponent, passed; his partner, Mrs. Williams, bid two diamonds; and Mrs. R. L. Hardy, his other opponent, bid four hearts. Mr. Lloyd then raised to four spades and spread his unbeatable hand on the table.

SON TO OPERATE BOOKOUT COMPANY

Announcement was made Tuesday that the J. J. Bookout Jewelry Company would continue in business at the present location, 114 Peachtree avenue, under the direction of Henry W. Bookout, president of the United States Commissioner Carl Noble on charges of setting fire in the Osceola national forest.

They were arrested by E. W. Hadley, government forest supervisor. He said numerous persons living near the Osceola forest objected to its existence as they wished to use the land for cattle grazing purposes.

HOMICIDE JUDGMENTS AFFIRMED BY COURT

Damages Totaling $18,000 in Two Fatalities Upheld.

The state court of appeals Tuesday upheld city court of Decatur verdicts awarding a total of $18,000 damages in homicide cases, and affirmed the overruling of a general demurrer filed by the borough of Atlanta to damage suits for $15,000 instituted by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Reynolds.

The Decatur verdicts involved an award of $10,000 to Mrs. Mary G. Bell, who sued the Georgia Power Company for the death of her son, John Bell Jr., killed January 15, 1929, in an automobile accident on Peachtree road; and an award of $8,000 to Mrs. Louise Turley for the death of her daughter, Mildred, 4, who was killed by a truck of the City Ice Delivery Company on December 9, 1929, at DeKalb and Rogers avenues.

Mrs. Reynolds alleges that she was injured when she stepped into a hole in the sidewalk on Matthews avenue March 17, 1929. She asks for $10,000

Norman Breaks Rule, Allows 'Interview'

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, broke a rule today when he returned from the world bank meeting at Basel, and gave an interview. It was concise and cryptic.

"I am going home now just as soon as I can get there," he said. "All I can tell you is: Don't believe all you hear."

Then he walked briskly down the railway platform toward his car, carrying his own black brief case and tilting his hat at a jaunty angle.

for personal injuries, and her husband seeks $5,000 for loss of services of his wife. The court did not pass on constitutionality of the act creating "Atlanta" and its boroughs, because it said, this phase of the case was not properly brought in question, but the court held that interpretation of the act as shown by the ruling of the trial judge is in keeping with the apparent intention of the general assembly to create a larger municipality known as "Atlanta" with subdivisions known as boroughs. "Particularly is this shown by the striking of the word 'city' in the corporate name and the substituting in lieu thereof the word 'borough,'" the court said.

How Decreased Railroad Earnings Affect You

Every reader of this newspaper is directly or indirectly concerned with the prosperous operation of American railroads as will be shown in this announcement. Read it carefully so that you may be impressed with the necessity for greater co-operation with the railroads and more equitable laws and regulations governing other forms of transportation.

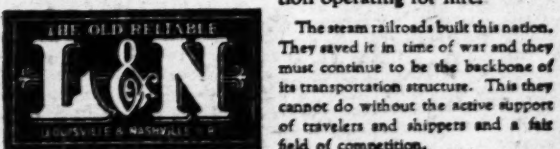

At the close of last year 1,350,000 employees were in the service of the railroads, and this figure was over 400,000 less than five years before and fewer than at any time since 1909.

In the past five years this railroad has found it necessary, on account of competing forms of transportation and depressed business, to reduce its force by more than 18,700 employees—men and women who are capable, good citizens and assets to the community in which they live. Railroad employees are patrons of every line of business and professional activity.

Less patronage and lower earnings have forced the railroads to materially reduce their expenditures for fuel, products of iron and steel mills and various items of materials and supplies; numerous stations and ticket offices have been closed and many trains discontinued. These conditions have been observed and felt by almost everyone.

There is scarcely a family in all America that is not affected by railroad prosperity, or lack of it. This is evidenced by the widely-held securities, stocks and bonds, in the hands of the American people; all American institutions, financial, educational, etc., as well as forming the basis of many trust estates. Fourteen billion dollars worth of railroad bonds and ten billion dollars worth of railroad stocks are held by the public and these institutions.

It is to your interest, therefore, to assist the railroads in regaining their lost ground by patronizing them; and by helping them to solve the problems confronting them as the result of unjust and unfair competition with other forms of transportation operating for hire.

FIRST PARLIAMENT MEETS IN MADRID

Newest Republic Cheers as Cortes Assembles After Eight Years.

BY CLARENCE DUBOSE.
MADRID, July 14.—(AP)—The future of Spain, for the first time in eight years, tonight was in the hands of a popular assembly.

While thousands thronged the plaza outside the assembly hall, the constituent cortes, first assembled to be held for eight years and first republican assembly since 1873, was called to order this evening.

The session opened after a colorful cabinet parade along Madrid's trooped streets. Cheering crowds voiced the hope of the millions who two months ago overthrew the monarchy for republican government.

Immediately after the gavel had banged in the assembly hall, the constituent cortes, first assembled to be held for eight years and first republican assembly since 1873, was called to order this evening.

The cabinet now wished, he said, to resign its powers to "Spain's only majesty—the constituent assembly."

He urged the deputies to attack their many problems as rapidly as possible and to throw their entire energies into outlining a new constitution as quickly as possible.

As the assembly opened there were only two splashes of the color of the past visible in the scene. Those were the uniforms of two "mace bearers" who stood, dressed like the Jack of Spades, on either side of the speaker's rostrum, carrying ancient pikes and lanterns. Above them towered the two heroic statues of Ferdinand and Isabella.

Otherwise the chamber was stripped of everything which savored of the days of the monarchy. The men who present themselves before you come with clean hands.

"There is no possibility of a return of the monarchy. Free from all foreign tutelage, we are masters of our fate."

The only outward incidents reported were the hissing of Papal Nuncio Tedeschini by the crowd as he entered the congressional building, and the jeering at the civil guards

Marathon Minister Quits at 58½ Hours

COTTON VALLEY, La., July 14.—(AP)—Having broken all endurance records for preaching one continuous sermon, the Rev. E. A. Sandifer, 40-year-old pastor of the Cotton Valley Baptist church, stepped down from his pulpit tonight after delivering a sermon 58½ hours long.

The preacher mounted his pulpit Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and started expounding the Gospel on the subject "What's Wrong with the Church?" He came down tonight at 9:30 o'clock, quite hoarse but "feeling fine."

About 700 persons occupied pews in the little brick church at the hour the Rev. Sandifer concluded his long-winded talk. They crowded around the channel and congratulated him.

Mr. Sandifer more than doubled the former marathon record sermon of 29 hours set by a California minister.

Diamond Acquitted In Assault Charge

TROY, N. Y., July 14.—(AP)—Jack (Legs) Diamond, gangster chief, was acquitted tonight of the assault charge brought against him.

Tackling mountain truck man, said he was beaten and tortured by Diamond and his gang when he refused to reveal the location of a safe.

Diamond proved an alibi.

Caraway To Undergo Operation at Capital

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—An operation will be performed on Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, for removal of a kidney stone at the Naval hospital here probably Thursday.

The Arkansas senator has been in the hospital several days for observation.

President Alcala Zamora was visibly affected by the cheering.

"This will be the last of Spanish revolutions," he said, "and the first which opens the pathway to social justice. We must avoid further bloodshed."

"I think the revolution showed no stains of greed. The men who present themselves before you come with clean hands."

"There is no possibility of a return of the monarchy. Free from all foreign tutelage, we are masters of our fate."

SENATE LAUNCHES FARM BOARD QUIZ

Talmadge Defends $14,000 Expenditure Hit in Duckworth Resolution.

One more investigation—this one aimed at the expenditures of the state department of agriculture—was launched in the senate Tuesday when the upper house adopted the Duckworth resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to investigate further the report of state auditor showing disbursements of $14,000 described as "unauthorized by law."

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner, said when informed of the adoption of the resolution that he welcomed the investigation and that he was "proud of this expenditure than any ever made by the bureau of markets."

He said Georgia farmers had been benefited "thousands of dollars" for every one of the $14,000.

The senate Tuesday passed unanimously a bill to amend the constitution to provide for the classification of property for purposes of taxation.

A measure similar to one approved by the house committee on constitutional amendments Monday night.

A limit of five mills would be placed on intangibles under the provisions of the proposed amendment.

It defeated the bill of Senator E. F. Dekle to create a separate senatorial district of the counties of Cooke, Berrien and Lowndes.

ALBERT B. FALL TELLS HIS STORY

up between persons, a sort of "spiritual incompatibility."

"Well—see him," Harding said. "He has been to the Geneva conference. Find out his ideas on the world economy."

Harding had not yet committed himself on the world court.

Root, I found in talk in his senate office, very much impressed with the possibility of the world court.

By that time Harding had begun to feel the political pressure always exerted on a presidential nominee, and had come to the idea that, regardless of his own wishes, the secretary of state must be a New Yorker.

Root eliminated, Charles Evans Hughes stood out as the most satisfactory nominee. Hughes became Harding's secretary of state.

August 17, 1920, Harding wrote me from Marion, Ohio:

"I would like to have you come here so I may avail myself of your counsel and advice. Really, I need much help."

Cotton and Tobacco Production Far Below Last Year's Estimates, Says State Bureau.

ATHENS, Ga., July 14.—The acreage of most Georgia crops, with the exception of fruits, is below that of a year ago, according to a report issued here today by the Georgia crop reporting service.

The bureau placed the state's cotton acreage at 2,457,000, or 12 per cent less than last year's acreage, while the tobacco acreage is estimated at 18 per cent below 1930.

Although the corn acreage is 5 per cent greater than last season, a production of 31,646,000 bushels, which is 21 per cent under last year's estimate, is indicated.

There has been a heavy increase in the state's peanut acreage, the report reveals, and it has also been an unusually favorable year for wheat, oats and rye. A 125 per cent acreage gain over last year is shown by wheat. Oats has increased 30 per cent in acreage and 44 per cent in production over 1930.

The condition of peaches shows a decline of 9 points in condition from one month ago, but the reported figure of 73 per cent is 19 points higher than the poor condition of a year ago and 10 points above the 10-year average of 63 per cent.

Denoth reduced the acreage of early varieties, but rains in the commercial areas since July 1 were of great benefit to the main varieties. Probable production of the total agricultural crop, greater than and including the commercial crop, is placed at 6,900,000 bushels, as compared with 4,808,000 bushels last year and the very short crop of 2,880,000 bushels the previous year.

Georgia has an indicated production of 1,530,000 bushels of Irish potatoes, against 1,424,000 last year, while the famous sweet potato crop is estimated at 5,335,000 bushels, against 6,088,000 bushels last year.

HIGH ARMY OFFICERS TO VISIT MCLELLAN

Atlanta's 122nd Infantry Wins Praise of Colonel G. P. O'Keefe.

FORT MCLELLAN, Ala., July 14.—Major General William G. Everson, chief of the militia bureau, of Washington, will arrive in camp by airplane Wednesday afternoon, being the first of a number of high army officers scheduled to visit Atlanta's own 122nd Infantry now in camp here.

A regimental parade at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and a formal dress dinner at 6:30 are the highlights of the program.

General Everson will leave Thursday morning by plane for Atlanta.

According to regular army instructors assigned to the Georgia troops, the progress on the second day of the two-week program was very good and every one is jubilant over the prospects of a rest at the expiration of camp.

Colonel G. P. O'Keefe, commanding the regiment, warmly praised his officers at the evening mess Tuesday for the very solidly manner and generally fine conduct of their respective units.

USE MORE COTTON, CALLAWAY URGES

Fifty Per Cent Consumption Increase Held Necessary To Prevent Losses.

Unless there is a substantial increase in domestic consumption of cotton this year at present prices, cotton growers face the prospect of losing more than $100,000,000 in the crop, Cason J. Callaway, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, told members of the Atlanta Rotary Club at their luncheon meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Callaway urged a 50 per cent increase in American consumption as the only means of curing for the surplus crop, which he estimated at 3,000,000 bales carry-over this year. The average American consumption, the speaker said, during the last 10 years has been 6,000,000 bales, and while foreign consumption has been steady only 45.7 per cent of the cotton grown in America is used in this country.

The world has come to look upon cotton," the speaker said, "as a low-grade article. I would like to see cotton manufacturers take so much pride in their product that they would attach labels to it proclaiming it '100 per cent cotton, just as manufacturers of wool, silk and other commodities have been doing for years.'

Mr. Callaway revealed that the average price paid for cotton during the last decade has been 19.31 cents per pound, while the current price is about 8.50 cents.

UTILITY 'WAR' DENIED BY KANSAS OFFICIAL

TOPEKA, Kan., July 14.—(AP)—Sweeping denial of any connection between failure of Governor Harry H. Woodring's negotiations for a gas rate cut in Kansas and suspension from the right of sale in the state of C. B. Newcomer, assistant state bank commissioner, was made today by Carl Newcomer, assistant state bank commissioner.

Newcomer was a witness before a two-judge court which is hearing the company's suit to enforce enforcement of the stock order. The court had ruled the suspension action, taken by the banking department early in the month, was void because a law under which the order was made was unconstitutional.

Under direct examination by Robert Stone, of Cities Service counsel, Newcomer admitted that at the time the order was issued, which the department withdrew its approval of the company's stocks listed on the New York curb, except its first preferred, he knew through newspaper accounts of Governor Woodring's negotiations.

He denied, however, that at the time the order was issued, he was a representative of Henry L. Doherty, president of the Cities Service Company, which through a string of subsidiaries serves more than 100 cities in the state, had terminated negotiations with Woodring, who had demanded a reduction from 40 to 30 cents a thousand cubic feet in the city gas rate charged to local distributing companies.

The order was issued on July 2, the same day Cities Service refused to meet the governor's demand. The company in its suit contesting the suspension action, subsequently restrained temporarily, contended it was part of a plan by the state officials to force it to accede to Woodring's proposal.

Newcomer testified he had arrived at his opinion the stocks were of "doubtful or worthless" value after making a study of financial reports. Stone said in the course of his examination he was attempting to show Newcomer had "no basis for his order and that he took gossip and scandal-monger information."

Newcomer said information available to him showed the company had a ratio of $1.50 in assets to $1 in liabilities and that "it should have a ratio of at least $4 to $1."

MINE CONFERENCES WILL BE CONTINUED

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The administration still hopes to find some means of bettering economic conditions in the bituminous coal mining industry.

At the close of a two-day conference with representatives of the United Mine Workers, Secretary Doak announced further conferences would be held shortly. He did not indicate, however, who would be asked to participate.

"We have heard both the miners and operators," Doak said, "but have reached no conclusion. There will be further conferences before a final report is made to President Hoover, but I do not know at this time who they will be with."

The conference ended today was the second in a series of the secretaries of labor and commerce are holding at the direction of President Hoover in an effort to ascertain whether there is a ground on which all elements interested in the coal industry may be brought around a common conference table. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, asked President Hoover to call an economic conference.

Fate Teeth in Throat Fetal to Texas Soldier

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Private Olaf Nelson, of Fort Bliss, Texas, died at Walter Reed hospital early today after five unsuccessful attempts to extract from his esophagus artificial teeth he swallowed last Saturday.

The 30-year-old soldier, who was rushed across country in an army ambulance plane, died at 7 o'clock from suffocation. He had rallied from the fifth probing for the dental bridge which caught in his throat while eating breakfast at the Texas army post and at 4 a. m. was believed better than at any time since he arrived here late yesterday.

SENATE OF ALABAMA ASKS MORE MEMBERS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 14.—(AP)—The senate of the Alabama legislature today voted, 22 to 11, to submit to the voters in 1932 a constitutional amendment to increase its membership from 35 to 67.

The measure already has passed the house and is being submitted to the general election in 1932.

In the house, a measure to make the Alabama highway code conform to the uniform code and a companion bill providing for a drivers' license of $1 for three years for each auto, were indefinitely postponed, having the effect of killing both measures.

The senate hit high speed this afternoon, working until late to clear the calendar of all pending bills, but the house after several debates recessed at 5 p. m. to come back in a next session.

Both houses today overrode the veto of Governor B. M. Miller on the Sanderson act to authorize circuit court judges with the concurrence of the circuit solicitor to probate sentences of ten years or less and authorizing the appointment of probation officers. The measure now becomes law.

The Trust bill for a 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax until October 1, 1932, when 1 cent will be dropped, was reported favorably to the house and takes its place on the calendar. The measure will be called up for final passage on Thursday.

Talk of a recess dwindled today with the majority bloc in the senate through Senator E. F. Hildreth, its leader, announcing that such a move would be defeated by the bloc.

Under the existing schedule, since adjournment probably will come on Thursday, July 23.

J. P. DICK INJURED AS ROCK IS HURLED

Jackson P. Dick, assistant general manager of the Georgia Power Company, was injured Monday night when he was struck in the mouth by a rock thrown by a negro boy.

Mr. Dick was riding in a car with Bobby Jones, R. H. Jones and O. B. Keeler, of Atlanta, when the incident occurred. They were en route to Augusta.

The mishap occurred about 27 miles from Augusta, and so severe was the effect of the missile that it was necessary for physicians to take 14 stitches in Mr. Dick's lips to close the wound. The negro was not arrested, the officers said, because of his extreme youth.

SON SOUGHT, MOTHER'S FUNERAL PLANS MADE

While all efforts to locate 17-year-old J. T. Gardner to notify him of the death of his mother, Mrs. J. H. Gardner, had failed, plans were completed Tuesday for funeral services, which will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the residence, 1005 Bankhead avenue, Mrs. Gardner died Tuesday morning.

The son disappeared from home on July 4, saying he was going to a movie. He had not been heard from or seen since. An appeal was broadcast Tuesday for information as to his whereabouts and until late that afternoon the funeral arrangements were postponed.

The Rev. B. Postell Read will officiate at the rites, and interment will be in Crestview cemetery. Mrs. Gardner is survived by her husband, two sons, J. T. and Buford Gardner; her mother, Mrs. J. H. Peddicord, and six sisters and a brother.

IMMIGRATION OFFICE TOLD TO RELEASE MAN

Danton Claramunt, whose parents were natives of Cuba, was released from the custody of federal immigration authorities Tuesday, following the signing of an order by Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood, who ruled that Claramunt was illegally held for deportation after hearing a writ of habeas corpus filed in federal court by Attorney Frank A. Doughman.

The writ, filed against Joseph H. Wallis as district director of immigration, alleged that Claramunt has been a resident of America for about 40 years, coming here while an infant. He was convicted of a statutory offense in Florida, and for several months resided in Canada after paying his fine. On his return to America he was held for deportation, it was alleged.

COPELAND PROTESTS COLLEAGUES' ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Senator Copeland said today that he had told President Hoover he considered two of his democratic colleagues, Senators Hawes and Pittman, were using bad judgment in fanning the flame of Philippine independence during their present trip to the islands.

MUSCLE SHOALS BODY NAMED FOR ALABAMA

State To Co-operate With Tennessee In Seeking Power Solution.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 14.—(AP)—A set of two states to seek a solution to the problem of disposition of the government's $150,000,000 nitrate plants and hydro-electric project at Muscle Shoals on the Tennessee river, today was completed by Governor B. M. Miller, who named three men as the Alabama commission.

This commission, with a similar body from Tennessee, probably will meet with Secretary of War Patrick C. Hurley, at Washington, Ala., the latter part of the week to discuss the method of work and to receive a tender of co-operation from the war department.

In announcing his commission of three—Judge S. F. Hobbs, of Selma; L. N. Duncan, director of the extension division of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, and W. F. McFarland, a Florence planter, Governor Miller said he had instructed them to meet with the secretary of war in Florence on Thursday.

Congressman E. B. Almon, of Tuscaloosa, announced there, yesterday, that he had been advised that the secretary of war would visit the Muscle Shoals project on Thursday, but from Washington the secretary said he probably would inspect the plant the latter part of the week.

The commission was authorized to carry out the suggestion of Secretary Hoover made in his veto message on the Norris act to lease the nitrate plants and the government to operate the hydro-electric plant, selling surplus power to municipalities.

TWO ARE APPOINTED BY PRESIDENT HOOVER

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—One of the capital's hardest perennial, Muscle Shoals, today broke into bloom again.

President Hoover appointed Edward A. O'Neal, of Alabama, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, to represent agriculture for the federal government on a joint commission appointed by Tennessee and Alabama.

At the same time he appointed Colonel Harley B. Ferguson, of the corps of engineers, and Colonel Joseph I. McMillen, of the judge advocate general's office, to represent the war department.

The commission will study methods for handling the Muscle Shoals plant as a result of President Hoover's suggestion that the two states, being primarily concerned, should appoint representatives to study the possibilities of the huge war-time development.

The suggestion was made last March 3 in a message vetoing the Norris Muscle Shoals bill.

SPRING HILL RITES
FOR G. Y. DREGER

The family of George Yeager Dreger, 23, student at Georgia Tech and one of the most popular members of last year's junior class, were in receipt of a large number of expressions of condolence Tuesday as a result of young Dreger's death at a private hospital last Friday afternoon.

Services were held at 4 o'clock Monday at Spring Hill chapel, and interment was in West View cemetery. Mr. Dreger is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Dreger; a sister, Mrs. Gene Cochran, and three brothers, C. Marion, W. T. Jr., and John S. Dreger.

Mr. Dreger was born in Atlanta and was honor graduate of Boys' High school. He matriculated at Georgia Tech in 1929 and was one of the most brilliant students of the junior class a year ago when ill health forced him to leave school. He was a member of the Beta Phi, honorary chemical society.

GIRL HUNG BY WRISTS
GIVEN $1,500 DAMAGES

A judgment of $1,500 awarded a 12-year-old negro girl of Thomasville, who alleged she was hung by the wrists for picking up a piece of candy, was affirmed against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company by the Georgia court of appeals Tuesday.

The complaint by a next friend of Charlie Mae Dowling against the company and Cecil Moore, manager of the store, alleged that the store manager slapped the girl, and then tied her wrists to the ceiling so that she was forced to stand on tiptoes for two hours until her foster mother paid $5 for her release.

TWO ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two persons were injured—one seriously—in motor accidents here Tuesday.

Julian Wehr, of San Francisco, was in Grady hospital as the result of a fractured skull and other injuries received Tuesday afternoon when his motorcycle skidded at Ponce de Leon avenue and Bonaventure place. At the hospital it was said his condition was critical.

Miss Beulah Brand, 21, of 328 Telford street, was struck and slightly injured as she stepped from a street car at Moreland avenue and McPherson street Tuesday afternoon. The young woman was struck in the back by a machine said by police to have been driven by John L. Waters. No arrest was made. Miss Brand's condition was said to be not serious.

Resolutions of sorrow and sympathy were adopted by Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, and the auxiliary at its last meeting over the tragic death recently of Miss Mary Cayce, who was killed in an automobile accident. Miss Cayce for many years was a member of the auxiliary and had been active in hospital work for veterans. The resolutions paid high tribute to the activities of Miss Cayce and added, "A host of community joins with tenderest sympathy to her bereaved family in this their hour of sorrow."

"Crack" Brings Airport
For Home Town

CLARK, Okla., July 14.—(AP)—The humorist, got a ride today with Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in the round-the-world plane Winnie Mae, and arrived in the old home town to find one of his wise-cracks had become an airport, named in his honor.

Rogers flew here with the famous women from Tulsa, Okla., to join in a welcoming celebration and to help dedicate the landing field which Claremore citizens hastily laid out after Will had made several jokes about their laxity in establishing an airport.

About 3,000 persons were on hand to cheer the trio. The field was good enough for Post to make an easy landing with the Winnie Mae. Rogers remarked he previously had to "land in a parachute" when he came home.

"Night in Orient" Features Revels Of Mystic Shrine

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 14.—(AP)—Tonight was a "night in the orient" as the realm of Shrinism reached the most dazzling display of its 57th annual convention.

Under a huge tent, 600 members of the imperial council of the Ancient and Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine feasted and made merry while thousands more watched from the stands of the municipal stadium.

Feasting was preliminary to the pageant, which opened with a three-ring circus and dancing by a ballet of 300 girls of the cult's harem.

The pageant was the second brilliant event of the day. Approximately 10,000 nobles from 33 temples formed a parade three miles long this morning.

At the end of the parade in the stadium, the convention was officially opened with a prayer and addresses of welcome.

The imperial council began its business session today with a proposal to abolish state jurisdictional lines as one of its most important problems. It is expected the proposal, advocated by Noble James B. Anderson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., will be approved.

5,000 SOUTHERN SHRINERS
MEET HERE IN NOVEMBER

Announcement that approximately 5,000 Shriners of the southeastern states, accompanied by brass bands, drum corps and chanters, will visit Atlanta in November for a three-day miniature imperial council session was a feature of the Cleveland convention Tuesday.

The plans were made public following organization of the Southeastern Shrine Association, on the eve of the national imperial council session.

Temples represented pledged themselves to bring their uniformed bodies and initiate to Atlanta. The latter, in a grand ceremonial will "cross the hot sands" in the Yarnab mosque and auditorium, it was announced.

Formation of the new association was sponsored by Potentate R. N. Pickett Jr., of Yarnab temple, Atlanta.

MARRIAGE AND MURDER LINKED IN LOUISIANA

Recently Wedded to Italian Girl, Sportsman Is Found Slain.

BATON ROUGE, La., July 14.—(AP)—Police here and in New Orleans today investigated the decapitation of Earl Miles, youthful sportsman, on the theory that he had been killed because of his recent marriage to an Italian girl.

The headless body of Miles, whose home was in New Orleans, was found yesterday in a ditch on a deserted plantation 10 miles south of here. He left New Orleans a week ago in an automobile with two unidentified men a garage attendant described as "foreign looking."

The car, blood-stained, was found last Wednesday five miles from where the body subsequently was discovered.

Eugene Miles Jr., one of the slain youth's three brothers who came here to claim the body, expressed the opinion Earl had been slain by hired killers who took the head back to New Orleans as proof to collect their money.

Another brother, Gordon Miles, said Earl had been threatened by some men who had objected to his marriage.

I. C. C. EXAMINER HOLDS
TOBACCO RATES FAIR

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Examiner Disque recommended to the interstate commerce commission today that it find rates on tobacco no less than carloads from producing points in North Carolina and Virginia to southern destinations were reasonable.

The principal tobacco manufacturers and the Tobacco Merchants Association of the United States last November complained the rates were too high.

Father of Groom Seeks To Annul Secret Marriage

A romantic bubble burst Tuesday when John J. Miles, of College Park, instituted annulment proceedings in Fulton superior court against the secret marriage of his 16-year-old son, Ernest H. Miles, to Miss Maude Mathis.

At the time the wedding was performed the youthful husband was but a little more than 15 years old and the bride only about 16, the papers filed by the father allege.

The wedding took place in Marietta on January 23, it is asserted, and the couple were taken to Cobb county by Clyde Bone and Mrs. Addie Honey, sister of the bride.

The annulment proceedings charge that Bone and Mrs. Honey employed fraud in the matter, and posing as the couple wishing to get married, obtained the license in Cobb county.

The wedding ceremony, it is alleged, was performed in front of a minister's home, while the couple sat in the automobile.

'BLACK LIST' ADMITTED BY POSTAL DEPARTMENT

Officials Defend Refusal of Money Orders for Pictures.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Replying to claims it maintained a "money order blacklist" without authority, the postoffice department said today it had returned to senders money orders addressed to Richard A. Giesecke, a Dresden, Germany, publisher, because he had sent pictures regarded as obscene through the American mail.

Gordon W. Moss, secretary of the National Council on Freedom from Censorship, had asked the department under what statute it "can censor money orders."

H. J. Donnelly, solicitor of the department, said a law permitting it to

Pacific Voyage Started By Memphis Navigator

YOKOHAMA, July 14.—(AP)—Edward Miles, of Memphis, Tenn., started today on a projected journey across the Pacific alone in a five-ton yacht with auxiliary motor. His first scheduled stop is Honolulu.

"I won't have time to feel lonesome," he said. "Being the navigator, engineer, cook and all keeps me on the jump during all waking hours."

Miles carried food enough to last three months. He hopes to be the first lone sailor to make the eastward crossing. The westward crossing has been made by lone navigators on three occasions.

Deny issuance of money orders was invoked against Giesecke in 1923. The council said Giesecke had published Dr. Johannes Rutgers' book, "The Sexual Life and Its Biological Significance," which was given a "clean bill of health" by a Seattle censors jury last April. Donnelly, however, said the ruling against the German publisher was on account of obscene pictures and not the Rutgers book.

SUTTON ATTACKED FOR LEAVING CITY

Seven Members of Board Score School Head for Frequent Absences.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, Tuesday was the object of an attack by members of the Atlanta board of education.

In a resolution demanding changes of rules to eliminate periodic absences from the city of the school head, seven members frowned on the policy of electing a superintendent for a specific term and asked that this be changed.

Sutton and other executives of the school department were elected recently for three-year terms. The superintendent recently retired after a year's service as president of the National Education Association.

Inasmuch as the proposal contemplates a change in the rules, the paper was referred to the rules committee automatically as no rule can be altered without "lying on the table" for a month.

The paper was preceded by a resolution by Commissioner William G. State, of the second ward, who demanded that the board "wire Sutton to get back to Atlanta and attend to the school business."

Sutton now is on a tour of the middle west after having attended the annual convention of the N. E. A. at Los Angeles. He has been absent from the city much during the past year on N. E. A. business and on lecture tours.

Text of the measure offered by Commissioners S. C. Noland, E. H. Sweet, Dr. Paul Whitehead, the Rev. H. J. Penn, Mrs. Julia O'Keefe, Nelson, C. O. Johnson and Dr. N. H. Baird, seven of the 14 members of the board, follows:

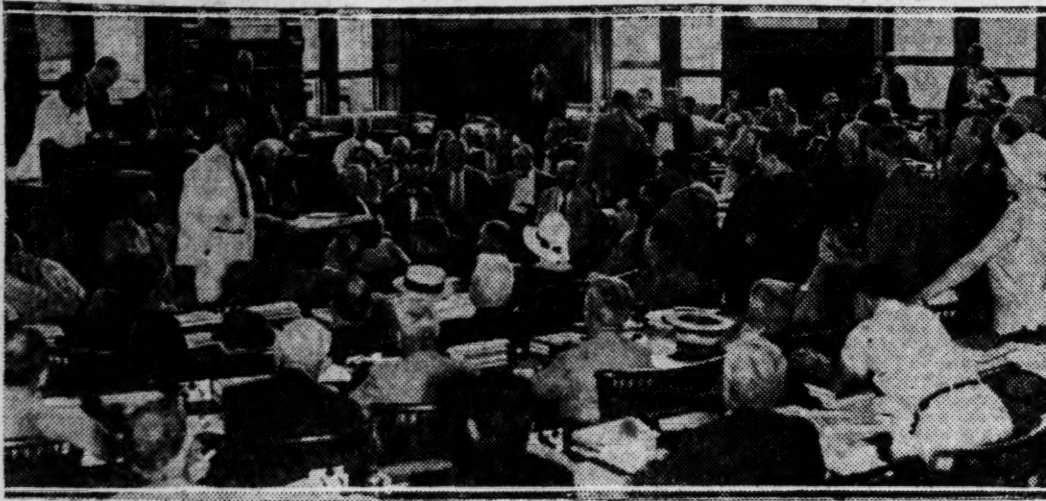

"No. 1. There has been much criticism of the school system. Whether or not this criticism is justifiable is a much mooted question. We believe it the duty of the superintendent of schools to so operate all departments of our school system as to eliminate the majority of just criticism, and operate the schools on a basis that will please the public, and reflect credit to the superintendent and the school board.

"We believe it is the duty of the superintendent to remain in Atlanta and attend to his business as superintendent of schools. We believe the superintendent alone should assume the responsibility for all justifiable complaints against the school system, and not be excused of said responsibility merely because the criticism happens to apply to some particular department of the school system. In other words, the superintendent has jurisdiction over all departments, and should therefore assume the responsibility for the satisfactory operation of all departments.

"No. 2. We believe that the superintendent should remain in Atlanta, and diligently attend to the many problems of operating our schools, throughout the entire year, and be available to the public and to the school board at all times throughout the year, with the exception of a reasonable vacation period, the length and time of which shall each year be determined by the board of education, based upon the superintendent's request, the superintendent not to be out of town on any school day without first obtaining the approval of the board of education at its regular meeting.

"No. 3. We do not think it good business to employ anyone, in any department, for any definite length of time. Commerce does not contract with its employees for any definite length of time, but to the contrary the duration of the employees' connection with the school system is for a definite period of time.

Hewlett Voices Opposition to Fulton County Bills

Sam D. Hewlett, Atlanta attorney, standing on the left, was voicing his opposition to the Fulton county commissioner bills Tuesday afternoon before the county and county matters committee of the house when this picture was taken. More than 100 interested citizens attended the hearing, which resulted in the committee's approval of the bills. Photo by Kenneth Rogers, staff photographer.

tion depends upon the satisfaction of their services. Therefore, we are opposed to the present rule of appointing anyone, or employing anyone for a three-year period, and we request that the rule be changed to read that no employee be appointed, or employed, for any set period of time, but to the contrary that all appointments, and employments be made, in all departments, with the definite understanding that all employees shall remain in the employ of the school board only so long as their services are satisfactory to the superintendent and to the board of education.

"No. 4. Inasmuch as it is the duty of the superintendent to attend to the affairs of the school system, and to report regularly to the board of education, we propose that the superintendent shall be required to prepare his reports for the board of education each month, in writing, and mail said reports to each board member on the last day of each month. This will enable board members to review the superintendent's reports prior to the regular meetings, and to make any preliminary investigations reference to the superintendent's reports, prior to the regular meetings, and thus enable them to give to their deliberations the result of said preliminary study of the superintendent's reports. It would also eliminate a lot of loose, 'last minute' memoranda.

"We, therefore, propose that the rules committee be requested to draw up suitable regulations, in keeping with the proposals herein expressed, and to change or eliminate present rules that conflict with said proposals.

COMMITTEE PASSES FULTON BOARD BILL

third meeting, the reduction dropped to $8,000. The salary bill now exceeds $2,094,000 for 1931. I intend to make it uncomfortable for the county commission to appropriate money illegally, and impossible to maintain a powerful political machine at the expense of the taxpayers.

Presentments Read.

Mr. McRae read grand jury presentments of August, 1930, attacking excessive salaries, and urging that wages be reduced. He also read grand jury reports on an investigation of alleged interest of Commissioner Stewart in subdivisions where roads were paved by the county, and said that the report shows the grand jury was unable to discover any breach of the law.

Mr. McRae said he wrote the commission last year, drawing attention to 13 alleged illegal appropriations, including Mr. Stewart's expenses to a football game, and a contract given to another commissioner to obtain a 33 1/3 per cent commission for collecting back taxes. More than $1,000,000 has been appropriated illegally since 1922, Mr. McRae said. "And the only excuse is that leading citizens deny it and the board has to give in. Any man may become a leading citizen if his arm is rammed into the public treasury year after year, he added.

Mr. McRae said he seeks to destroy the courthouse ring, "of which the commission is the hub," and set up eight or ten small rings which cannot get together.

Demonstrations Stopped.

Frequently adherents of McRae and Eckford broke into applause over remarks favorable to the bills, only to be silenced by Representative W. F. Andrews, of Crawford, chairman, who declared that the committee could not tolerate any demonstrations.

Representative Still introduced John K. Otley, president of the First National Bank; Lowry Arnold, Sam Hewlett, Steve Nance, Horace Russell, president of Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and Ronald Ransom, vice president of the Fulton National bank.

Mr. Otley told the committee that the present county commissioners ran before the people, were elected, and should be allowed to serve. "I have criticized the county salaries," Mr. Otley said. "All that I want is a reasonable salary basis," Mr. Eckford said.

To a question by Representative Harrison Ransom said that Fulton county funds are about evenly divided among the local banks. In response to inquiry by Representative Evans, he said that he voted for Mr. Eckford because he knew him, and was aware of Mr. Eckford's pledges in a general way, that they were on an anti-rigging basis. Mr. Still brought out that Mr. Ransom had not heard of a bill to reduce the commission at the time he voted for Mr. Eckford.

Nance Discusses Salaries.

A. Steve Nance, prominent labor man and printer, said that the average Fulton county salary is $108 a month, and that if the provision requiring the superintendent of public roads to be a University of Georgia man is enacted, the working man will have no incentive to attempt to climb to such a position. He spoke of the county commission primary and election, and declared that both were fought bitterly.

"Were you not recently appointed a jury commissioner?" Mr. McRae asked.

"I was so advised," said Mr. Nance. "You will be on the county pay roll?"

"I do not know that," Mr. Nance shot back. "Labor had your signed pledge that you would support the pension bill, but you went on the air and opposed it."

Pension Bill Pledge.

Mr. Nance said that Mr. McRae had signed a questionnaire sent out by the county employees, pledging himself to the pension bill.

"I would not support an act allowing the commissioners to pension anyone on 50 per cent of their pay, and then hire others and quickly pension them," Mr. McRae replied. The representative read the questionnaire section and contended that he had not made a definite pledge to support the bill.

Mr. Eckford, who also was said to have signed the pledge, asserted that he would not stand for a pension act putting a tax on the people. When Representative Still charged that the two representatives had executed an anti-labor pact, Mr. Eckford shot back: "Mr. Still, you are in a worse fix now on these bills."

"Do you do any county printing?" Mr. McRae asked Mr. Nance.

"Very little," Mr. Nance replied. "Mr. McRae wanted to know if Mr. Nance began lobbying against the Fulton bills before the Federation of Trades voiced opposition to the measures. 'I am not lobbying on the bills,' Mr. Nance said.

Arnold Questioned.

Representative Still said that the Fulton countians had no objection to answering questions, but that Mr. Arnold's time was up and he did not want to impose on the committee. Mr. Arnold concurred in this, and the motion was not insisted on.

Mr. McRae wanted to know from Mr. Arnold if he knew that in an election of commissioners certain ballot boxes were missed, that the voting list has been stricken from 60,000 to 30,000 persons, and that Albert Howell, chairman of the county democratic executive committee, had ruled that there was no precedent to open the ballot boxes for an investigation of the election. Mr. Arnold said he had heard of these things, but had no further knowledge of them.

Representative Eckford inquired of Mr. Arnold "if you credit with the desire of benefiting the taxpayers of Fulton county?"

Differ on Principle.

"Mr. Eckford is a fine boy, and I have no personal criticism of him," Mr. Arnold replied. "We differ merely on the principle of these bills."

Mr. Ransom told the committee that he did not speak officially for the Georgia Bankers' Association, of which he is president, but that "this is a case of Fulton county washing a little dirty linen in public."

He has constantly preached economy, but realizes the difficulty of economizing when in a political position, Mr. Ransom said. Members of the commission, in fact, have received great criticism because they are unable to do everything that people want done, and they were elected in the face of all the criticism heaped against the board, Mr. Ransom said. He has confidence in the present board, which is doing a difficult job to the best of its ability, Mr. Ransom asserted.

Election Basis "Wrong."

"If the present members are forced to run again, at least three of them will be re-elected to compose the new bills," Mr. Nance replied. "I will leave it to the members of the committee if I have approached any representative about the matter."

Self-Government Issue.

Horace Russell, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that local self-government is "a bigger question than this bill." Salaries of county employees should be a question left to the discretion of the commission, he said. Mr. Russell said he did not vote for all of the commissioners in office, and has not agreed to all of their acts, "but they are still my commissioners."

Mr. McRae attempted to enjoin an appropriation by the county to the better business commission, but Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, held the appropriation to be legal, Mr. Russell said. He said that other appropriations are in court now for determination of their legality. Mr. Russell said that the Chamber of Commerce supported no candidate for the legislature.

Sam D. Hewlett, attorney, said that he ran against Commissioner Stewart and "said everything about him, but he was elected." The grand jury did not get all of the evidence it was trying to get, but it found that no commissioner had any money to do anything with if they were elected. Mr. Hewlett said, He said that he would favor a bill such as introduced by McRae and Eckford, the bill would not legislate men out of office, but would surround the commission with safeguards against extravagance.

Mrs. Quincy Hits Bills.

Mrs. L. D. Quincy said that the bills are "undemocratic and will not stand the test of the courts."

Mr. Still said that passage of the commission bills is not the wish of the people of Fulton county. "Block votes" and not a mandate to pass these bills sent McRae and Eckford to the general assembly, Mr. Still said. "I was elected the same way," he added. "They went down to the police and fire stations just like I did and promised to give me pension."

Through, and McRae went to the Black Shirts when they were organizing against him and said he would hang on to their shirt tails if they would vote for him. They did not cuss anybody but the Chamber of Commerce.

"These bills violate the sacred traditions of this state," Mr. Still said. "Fulton has not a penny of bonded debt, and we have the finest roads and schools. They have no reason for Commissioner Stewart because he is as poor as Job's turkey."

Gullatt Lauds Fulton.

Representative Homer Gullatt, of Campbell county, which will become a part of Fulton on January 1, said that Fulton is the greatest county in the south, and is one of the best and most efficiently managed in the country. "I will be a Georgia if the change is made, he said. Fulton's tax rate is only $1.10, and the county is going forward all the time, he said.

Mr. McRae, in the concluding address, said that "Mr. Still is just trying to protect the politicians and Mr. Gullatt wants to give the roads in Campbell." Mr. McRae said that there will be no raise in assessments, and that the tax rate will be reduced by six mills from the present Campbell rate. "We must not allow the tail to wag the dog," Mr. McRae said.

"Mr. Gullatt told me that he wants to protect the men holding office in Campbell county," Mr. McRae declared.

"I want to ask you if I was drunk when I said that—and I never get drunk," Mr. Gullatt shot in.

"You are sober," said Mr. McRae. "The people of Fulton county want the right to pass on the county commission where they can elect a

WATER CHEMISTS SOUGHT FOR CITY

Council To Be Asked To Insure 24-Hour Check on Supply.

Council Monday will be asked to approve retention of the services of a chief chemist and two assistants at the Atlanta waterworks to "insure continued pure water supply."

Members of the finance committee of council Tuesday voted to make the request after W. Zed Smith, general manager of waterworks, and Mayor James L. Key urged the additions. It will mean an additional expenditure of $1,200 for the remainder of the year and the trio will take over the duties now performed by one man. The new help will insure a 24-hour check on the purity of the flow.

Smith also informed the committee that an addition to the filtration system and a new coagulation basin must be constructed within the near future at a cost of about $500,000.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took his Lockheed monoplane for another test flight today in anticipation of his takeoff across the Bering sea to Japan and China.

Lindbergh would not announce definitely when he intends to start the long flight, but said he is positive he will take the great circle route in crossing to the orient. He intends to confer with Wiley Post and Harold Gatty before leaving, he said.

MILLS CANCELS TALK ON WAR DEBT ISSUE

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury today cancelled a radio discussion of steps leading to the debt moratorium, scheduled for delivery tonight.

He said the subject had been "thoroughly discussed" and that it was useless to go over the same ground again. No manuscript was prepared.

Mr. Still asked if Mr. Eckford did not support Trautman Scott, who was defeated by George Longino for commissioner, and Mr. McRae admitted that Mr. Still further wanted to know if Mr. Eckford did not say that he would name Mr. Scott commissioner, that Mr. Eckford said in print that he "did not care what the people did, I'll put him in anyhow." Mr. McRae said that was printed. Mr. Eckford jumped to his feet and informed the committee that "it was printed in The Constitution. I can't be responsible for what they print."

ALL EUROPE FEELS CRISIS IN GERMANY

Many European Countries Refuse To Accept German Currency.

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The effects of the German crisis were apparent today throughout Europe.

In London British banks refused to accept German currency and it was feared thousands of tourists would be stranded without funds as the banks would not cash German checks.

In Vienna the Mercier bank, which was controlled by the suspended director of the National bank of Berlin, closed its doors. The house suspended trading in Hungarian stocks for three days.

In Budapest all Hungarian banks were closed suddenly, after a ministerial conference, for three days.

In Riga the Riga International bank and the Bank of Libau suspended in respect to current accounts and deposits. The Latvian cabinet guaranteed deposits in Latvian currency but declared it could not be responsible for deposits in foreign currency.

In Brussels—Reports from the borders of Belgium and Luxembourg told of thousands of Germans who were crossing over with their cash. Luxembourg suspended its marks exchange. At Ostend many German holiday makers were stranded.

In Copenhagen—Thousands of tourists were without money when hotels, chauffeurs and shopkeepers refused to accept reichsmarks.

In Bucharest—Financial circles were distressed by the closing of the Dacia bank at Jassy with a $1,000,000 deficit.

In Basel—The mark dropped from 22.50 to 112 and railroad exchange offices closed their windows. German travelers could not exchange their marks.

In Warsaw—There were no signs of panic and the stock market showed only a small decline. Silesia was affected more than other sections of Poland as several important business concerns there were financed by the Darmstadter and National bank.

In addition to the suspension of several banks in various parts of Europe, a striking factor today was the unpopularity of the mark.

One large London bank said it could not accept marks during the present situation, and that it would adhere to that policy until the German situation greatly improved.

It was understood that all the other British banks were adopting a similar policy.

London hotels were maintaining utmost caution in their necessary dealings in German marks and, while anxious to oblige the many Germans on vacation in London, refused to accept marks except the smallest commitments in marks.

There was as yet no answer to the questions about the steps Great Britain is taking to help the Reich.

In authoritative quarters it was believed the government would adopt the attitude that it was the turn of America and France to come to Germany's assistance with credit.

There was a strong disposition to blame the entire situation to the delay in accepting the Hoover proposal by other nations. Hope was expressed that the four-day delay in starting the conference of Young plan signatories would not have similar effects.

This conference meets at the treasury Friday with the problem before it of adopting the Hoover plan to the Young plan.

GERMANY EMERGES FROM HYSTERIA

Industries regardless of considerations of profit.

Distribution of free food and clothing to the unemployed was continued largely to the day's needs, whereas during many hours of yesterday every man and woman who could lay hands on savings seemed intent on turning cash into tangible goods, ranging from fur to foodstuffs.

Pay Rolls to Be Met.

Thousands of clerks and other workers were relieved by prompt payment of the banks, closed by the government's emergency decree today and tomorrow, to supply their firms through special messengers with cash to meet pay roll and other demands. Even the unemployed, whose relief was cut this week under President Von Hindenburg's June 5 decree, took what they could get with stoicism, glad that relief was being paid to all.

Breaking their accustomed rule, many German housewives and retailers asked for and received small credits. Wholesale dealers were confronted with the possibility of stoppage of many C. O. D. deliveries due to shortage of cash. The only alternative was to accept consignments checks against bills of lading. With discounting impossible and with influences making for a further tying up of cash, many considered a national moratorium on all private debts almost inevitable.

Prices of some commodities, such as butter and eggs, rose a few pennies. Foodstuffs were sought in greater quantities than heretofore. In general, retail business was not seriously affected and buying continued brisk throughout the day.

The cabinet formulated a plan for introduction of a new internal currency for use within Germany, possibly in the nature of a check or certificate which would be withdrawn as soon as possible, and reminiscent of the "Rentenmark" of the inflation period. Extreme nervousness in Wall Street was reported as a result of this plan, however, and the cabinet reconsidered.

Banks Closed Today.

"This plan is only one of several under discussion and it stands on about 5 per cent chance of adoption," said one authority, who feared that application of the scheme would be constrained throughout the world as a new German currency inflation.

Since banks will remain closed tomorrow, directors of the Berlin Stock Exchange decided to keep the exchange closed tomorrow as well. Following yesterday's suspension of the metal market, the grain exchanges in Berlin and also in Hamburg closed today and tomorrow.

An official announcement said that Carl Bergmann, former secretary of state, had been nominated as president's trustee of the closed Danatbank.

A spokesman for the government said that the cabinet was content that banks would reopen on Thursday, but he admitted that this was considered under success of Dr. Hans Luther, who arrived at the Pan-Pacific syndicate this afternoon on his return from yesterday's Bank of International Settlements meeting at Basle, negotiating at least a $300,000 loan. When the banks reopen, depositors and other creditors are expected to be allowed to make withdrawals only on a rationed basis.

New Failure Imminent.

Rumors were current today of imminent collapse of another of the biggest German banks, which for some days has been in grave difficulty. Government officials said they were hopeful the crash could be averted.

American bankers here leaned toward pessimism, some expressing conviction that Germany will be obliged in the near future to proclaim a national moratorium on private debts.

A representative of one large United States bank said:

"A moratorium on private debts might force quick foreign action for Germany's benefit. It might also lead foreign financiers to conclude that by helping Germany now they are throwing good money after bad. Nevertheless, we believe a national moratorium would be short-lived."

An internationally complicating factor appeared in rumors that the French had increased their demands for political concessions as a price for German credit, though these proposals were introduced only informally. They included a demand that Chancellor Heinrich Brüning undertake drastic suppression of German nationalist organizations of militant character, such as the Ex-Servicemen's League and also Hitler's "storm detachments" and "black lists." A high government official said such conditions would be unacceptable.

At the same time French banks advised that they would be unable to participate in an international credit to Germany unless the German and French governments came to terms politically.

The general council of the Reichsbank met tonight and issued a statement that 600,000,000 marks would be made available to business and industry Friday and Saturday to meet pay rolls. This was expected to play

Germany Must First Aid Self, Say Observers in Washington

BY MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, July 14.—In Washington the conviction is held that there is willingness on the part of all the great banking institutions in the world to do everything necessary to be done from the outside to enable the German financial situation to be stabilized.

It is equally the conviction that what can be done from the outside must be accompanied or preceded by steps which can only be taken by the German government and German financial leaders. Latest information is that these steps are being taken satisfactorily. The limitation upon the sending of capital out of Germany is precisely what was deemed essential as the first step.

The temporary closing of banks, while no doubt helpful, was not one of the steps regarded as essential to accompany help from the outside.

To take such steps calls for courage and resoluteness on the part of the German government. It is in the nature of political action that factions and leaders to attack any drastic step taken by any government in power during a time of stress. In the past ten years when analogous conditions have arisen in Germany and France, as well as in some smaller European countries, it has happened that two, three or four administrations in quick succession have gone out of power within a short period of time before financial remedies were completely achieved.

When it is said that all the great banking institutions outside Germany are willing to help, this includes the French. Information received in Washington does not bear out the stories to the effect that the willingness of French financial leaders to help Germany is conditioned upon unreasonable political exactions from Germany. The notion of imposing political conditions might readily be set in some sections of French public opinion without being entertained by responsible financial leaders at this time.

The effect that the readiness of French financial leaders to help is as great as that of the banks of other countries is important because to a considerable degree France is the keystone of the arch of European financial stability.

It is unfortunate that incorrect impressions about the French position on political conditions should arise in Germany. Those who include in profitless discussion of futile "ifs" in water that has gone over the dam may quantities than heretofore. In general, retail business was not seriously affected and buying continued brisk throughout the day.

say it is unfortunate the French delayed so long over acceptance of the Hoover plan for postponement of debts. Practically nothing of that sort is said in Washington. It would be equally appropriate and equally futile to say the German government might have taken three or four weeks ago the steps which it is taking now.

In both France and Germany newspapers and other sources not charged with responsibility express sentiments which are not shared by the responsible statesmen and bankers of either country. In all the flood of statements and news coming from all the European capitals, only the tiniest fraction is outside the otherwise authoritative. The mass of it consists of quotations from newspapers, opposition leaders, or other sources having varying weight, many of it slight.

Many rumors generate spontaneously at a time like the present and have the effect of suggesting greater excitement than in fact exists. A dispatch to the effect that Secretary Mellon had been ordered by the administration at Washington to go to London was quite untrue. The effect of representing Washington in an attitude that Washington does not have. Of the same sort was a dispatch from France to the effect that France was making military preparations in connection with the present crisis. A Russian newspaper pictures the German government as preparing to lead an armed intervention into Russia. Any tendency on the part of Americans to be infected with undue excitement could be offset by turning back to read the newspapers in 1922 when there was a worse situation in Germany than the present one, or the newspapers of 1923 when the world thought France was as much menaced as it thinks Germany to be today.

As respects business conditions in the United States, what is now happening in Europe was anticipated and largely discounted as much as six weeks ago when it first became apparent that financial and business leaders in this country. If present conditions in Germany should lead to prolonged business paralysis in that country, business recovery in America might be to some extent delayed. The better judgment, however, is that just as soon as the German government takes the necessary steps to improve its situation, Germany will be promptly supplied from outside banking institutions with the funds it needs.

FRANCE ALONE SHOWS DEBT PLAN BENEFITS

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Debt moratorium negotiations were reported today by the commerce department to have produced a favorable reaction in France but brought little uplift in business conditions in most other countries.

"The progress of the debt moratorium negotiations," said the department's weekly review, "produced a favorable reaction in France tending to relieve business tension. Commercial conditions, however, did not improve in June and labor difficulties continued."

"Except for seasonal increases in certain industries, French business showed little change throughout the last quarter, although the threat of serious labor trouble has been eliminated and the foreign trade balance is more favorable than last year."

"Business depression has continued to prevail in Spain and there has been a considerable degree of labor unrest."

"Portuguese business as yet shows no recovery from depression, but optimism has been increased by satisfactory crop reports, political tranquility and the expectation of beneficial results from the currency stabilization program."

Optimism over favorable crop prospects was reported from Mexico, a more buoyant report in Indian commercial circles was attributed to moratorium developments and there was a revival of trade activity in the Netherlands East Indies.

Little change was reported in Greece, Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Haiti, Japan and the Philippines.

Hitler Ready To Seize Reins To Prevent Bolshevist Rule

BY COUNT ROBERT KEYSERLING

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

MUNICH, July 14.—(UP)—Adolf Hitler, fascist leader, who often has proclaimed his determination to assume control of the German government by force if necessary, is ready to seize power to save his country from the rule of bolshevism, which he considers inevitable under present conditions.

Hitler told the United Press tonight that he considered the ascendancy of the fascist movement the only alternative to the bolshevist wave which he sees sweeping Europe.

"We are ready to assume governmental power at any time," Hitler said, "because the national opposition (the fascist party gained the second largest representation in the Reichstag in the landslide at the last elections and achieved the rank of the main opposition to the Brüning government) is convinced that it alone is able to halt the extremist development."

The fascist's Roman emblem, an eagle and wreath placed above Hitler's door, is the only indication that the brown house is Nazi Hitler's headquarters. A military atmosphere surrounds the entrance to the home.

On the walls of a wide corridor are bronze plates containing the names of those who died in the Munich disorders of 1923, when Hitler, in collaboration with General Erich von Ludendorff, staged the famous "beer cellar putsch," a fiasco which landed Hitler in prison.

At the end of the corridor is a reception room, guarded by uniformed sentries. Guards also stand outside other rooms.

Hitler appears more like a harried and earnest business man than a military chief. He wears plain blue civilian clothes and works at a mahogany desk in a large and simply decorated room bearing no signs of the military.

Death Stay Sought.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 14.—(AP)—Tyrone C. Taylor, executive counsel, said this afternoon that he would ask Governor Gardner to grant a stay of execution to Herman Casey, Lenoir county white man scheduled to be electrocuted at state's prison Friday for the murder of James Causey, wealthy lumberman of Suffolk, Va.

"Whenever fate calls us to the helm we shall not believe in the possibility of paying political tribute. But we do believe in the necessity of fulfilling those purely economic obligations which Germany has assumed in the course of years."

"It will be our foremost aim to secure the general economic and political consolidation of Germany, even by the harshest measures. However, first of all, our watchword is stamping out bolshevism in all its forms."

Hitler said he did not wish to make the economic fight of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning more difficult "because the first is not Germany's."

"I am a German myself," he said. "It is foolish to blame the government for the economic disaster of today. The blame must be attached to a policy based on false economic presumption."

Hitler's home "The Brown House," is near the center of Munich and is surrounded day and night by groups of young fascists waiting for a glimpse of their chief and to shout "Hail, Hitler!" when favored by a sight of him. The street is usually quiet, however, and sentinels, not in uniform, are on duty. Anyone attempting to enter the house is questioned zealously.

Commission Orders Inquiry Into Management Practices of Roads.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission tomorrow will open a series of hearings that may result in sweeping investigation of the management of the nation's railroads.

The carriers will be submitting evidence to support their claim that a 15 per cent freight rate increase is justified.

The commission has ordered a company inquiry into certain management practices of the roads.

Prices paid for coal, methods of handling fuel at cargo cars, and of handling fuel at tidewater points, preventing switches for industrial plants are to be the first subjects of investigation.

The management inquiry will be prosecuted independently of the rate case and at the commission offices today the belief was expressed that no final decision would be announced until long after the rate case is closed.

The proceedings are regarded by the commission as so important that commissioners have been assigned to turn back to read the newspapers in 1922 when there was a worse situation in Germany than the present one, or the newspapers of 1923 when the world thought France was as much menaced as it thinks Germany to be today.

As respects business conditions in the United States, what is now happening in Europe was anticipated and largely discounted as much as six weeks ago when it first became apparent that financial and business leaders in this country. If present conditions in Germany should lead to prolonged business paralysis in that country, business recovery in America might be to some extent delayed. The better judgment, however, is that just as soon as the German government takes the necessary steps to improve its situation, Germany will be promptly supplied from outside banking institutions with the funds it needs.

FRANCE ALONE SHOWS DEBT PLAN BENEFITS

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Debt moratorium negotiations were reported today by the commerce department to have produced a favorable reaction in France but brought little uplift in business conditions in most other countries.

"The progress of the debt moratorium negotiations," said the department's weekly review, "produced a favorable reaction in France tending to relieve business tension. Commercial conditions, however, did not improve in June and labor difficulties continued."

"Except for seasonal increases in certain industries, French business showed little change throughout the last quarter, although the threat of serious labor trouble has been eliminated and the foreign trade balance is more favorable than last year."

"Business depression has continued to prevail in Spain and there has been a considerable degree of labor unrest."

"Portuguese business as yet shows no recovery from depression, but optimism has been increased by satisfactory crop reports, political tranquility and the expectation of beneficial results from the currency stabilization program."

Optimism over favorable crop prospects was reported from Mexico, a more buoyant report in Indian commercial circles was attributed to moratorium developments and there was a revival of trade activity in the Netherlands East Indies.

Little change was reported in Greece, Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Haiti, Japan and the Philippines.

FOREST FIRES RAGING UNCHECKED IN WEST

SPOKANE, Wash., July 14.—(AP)—Forest fires in Montana and Idaho defied the efforts of 1,500 to bring them under control today.

A conflagration in the Clearwater forest of north Idaho had charred about 12,000 acres. Nearly 1,000 men attempted to trench it last night and 200 more were expected in today from Spokane.

In the Challis forest of central Idaho fires had swept over 2,500 acres, aided by dry weather and high mountain temperatures.

The entire region was darkened by smoke and scores of small fires were crackling, most of them under control.

A major part in strengthening trust of confidence.

Paul Loebe, reichstag president, summoned the reichstag "steering committee" to meet Friday at 11 a. m. to determine whether to call a special session.

The nationalists submitted a request that the reichstag be convened. The folks party, at a caucus, decided to demand reconstruction of the cabinet "on a broader basis."

Communists in the Ruhr mining region were reported working frantically among workmen and unemployed. Their newspapers published large headlines today saying, "Your wages are endangered, while agitators at the pit-heads told the miners they would not be paid and exhorted them to strike against the government."

Revolutionary trade unions in the Ruhr summoned special meetings of the so-called "fighting committees" to declare the time ripening for revolution.

Monastic party is not a party like others, past and present; it is an order, a combat, of a military type, that has achieved a long and has the imperative duty of defending it against whomsoever."

The second part of the declaration reads:

"The directorate of the national fascist party spurns with indignation, and with perfect knowledge of the facts, the affirmations contained in the recent appeal to foreigners sent from the Vatican, in which it was said that fascists had risen to prominence in the house of the pope."

"The attitude of the party has been, and is, positive on that score. If Don Sturzo (priest who was charged with political activity in Catholic action) is in exile in London, the grand master of Masonry is on the island of (Lipari)."

"The directorate of the party is vigilant to prevent any of the old remnants of the Masonic and liberal days from resuming any activities, even on the edges of the regime. But, this having been stated, the directorate of the party calls attention to the unheard of alliance established between the Vatican and Masonry, which are bound together in a common hostility toward a fascist state."

The third part of the declaration said:

"The directorate of the party protests against the lies, and denounces the affirmations, in the foreign note of Vatican origin against 'Balla,' the strong pride and future of the fascist regime. It declares that no one should be permitted to defame the great organization to which a thousand carefully chosen fascists, thousands of teachers in the public schools and 2,000 chaplains give their activity."

"It is an organization that should prepare, and will prepare, for tomorrow those who will carry on the fascist revolution. The directorate invites all fascists to work toward the end that 'Balla' may soon gather under the fascist emblem an entire new generation."

The "Balla" is an organization for youth somewhat similar to the Scout organizations.

Hitler Ready To Seize Reins To Prevent Bolshevist Rule

BY COUNT ROBERT KEYSERLING

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

MUNICH, July 14.—(UP)—Adolf Hitler, fascist leader, who often has proclaimed his determination to assume control of the German government by force if necessary, is ready to seize power to save his country from the rule of bolshevism, which he considers inevitable under present conditions.

Hitler told the United Press tonight that he considered the ascendancy of the fascist movement the only alternative to the bolshevist wave which he sees sweeping Europe.

"We are ready to assume governmental power at any time," Hitler said, "because the national opposition (the fascist party gained the second largest representation in the Reichstag in the landslide at the last elections and achieved the rank of the main opposition to the Brüning government) is convinced that it alone is able to halt the extremist development."

The fascist's Roman emblem, an eagle and wreath placed above Hitler's door, is the only indication that the brown house is Nazi Hitler's headquarters. A military atmosphere surrounds the entrance to the home.

On the walls of a wide corridor are bronze plates containing the names of those who died in the Munich disorders of 1923, when Hitler, in collaboration with General Erich von Ludendorff, staged the famous "beer cellar putsch," a fiasco which landed Hitler in prison.

At the end of the corridor is a reception room, guarded by uniformed sentries. Guards also stand outside other rooms.

Max, Eye Injured in Stribling Bout, Forced Out of Training; Six Local Golf Stars Enter National Amateur Qualifying Play

BAD EYE FORCES MAX SCHMELING OUT OF TRAINING

Injuries Received in Stribling Bout May Halt Primo Go.

BERLIN, July 14.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, can do no training or boxing for at least two and probably three months, because of the left eye he injured in a 15-round title defense against W. L. Stribling in Cleveland, July 3.

Eye specialists, called in today by his return home, warned him that he must take a complete rest for several months. Their decision probably puts an end to negotiations in New York leading up to another championship match in the United States in September with Primo Carnera, the Italian, as the contender.

Schmeling, who returned yesterday to his home here after whipping Young Stribling in a title defense in Cleveland July 3, complained of pain in and about his left eye. He said after the match that Stribling had struck his gloved hand in the eye in the first round.

Although Schmeling attributed the injury to the fact that Stribling struck his gloved thumb in the champion's eye in the first round, the flesh about the eye was swollen and discolored from right hand punches landed by the southern challenger in the first four rounds. Until the champion found his fighting stride, Stribling hit him freely on the left side of the face with jab.

After Schmeling sailed for home, Joe Jacobs, his manager, agreed with Madison Square Garden of Illinois for a title defense early in the fall against Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, but there have been persistent rumors about the fight marred since that match would not take place.

After winning recognition as champion by defeating Jack Sharkey on a foul in four rounds in New York June 12, 1930, Schmeling returned to Germany after agreeing to a return match and announced from there that injuries resulting from the low blow prevented his going through with the bout.

Gotham Commission Tables Fight Request.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission today tabled until July 24 the request of Madison Square Garden for approval of a match between Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle on August 13 at either Yankee stadium or the Polo grounds.

The commission gave no reason for the delay, but it has been rumored that the Garden would have difficulty obtaining sanction for outdoor matches, because one of its subsidiaries promoting the match, the Garden, is in opposition to the wishes of the commission.

The commission was more kindly disposed toward the Kentucky bout between Knute Hansen, the delfin Dane who has been defeated by numerous second and third-raters, as a worthy opponent for the giant Italian in a bout at Rochester, N. Y., July 20.

Don Leon Winner At Latonia Track

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Don Leon, one of the winter-bred favorites to win the Kentucky Derby, showed a flash of the speed which led him to the two-year-old championship of the west last year as he conquered a class of field sprinters in the Wyoming purse at Latonia today.

The little chestnut from R. W. Collins' stable led all the way to cover the distance in 1:12 3/5. Halcyon H. P. Gardner's Sir Galahad III followed, with J. W. Farrish's Stock Market third.

Joe Bibb, third in the American Derby and C. C. Van Meter's candidate for Saturday's Arlington classic, was an easy winner of the Dallas purse of a mile and a furlong at the Chicago course. He stepped the distance in 1:51 3/5 to defeat Chief John, the only other starter, by two lengths.

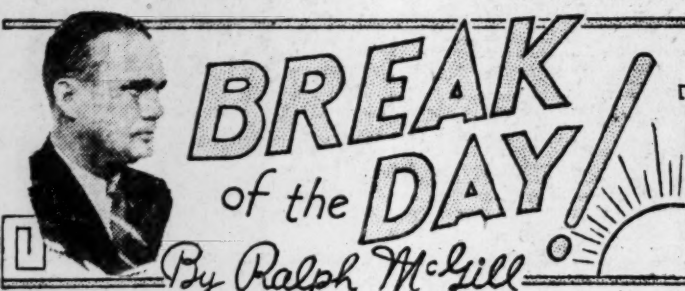

Rain Halts Game, Twin Bill Tonight

Drizzling, intermittent rain Tuesday night forced postponement of the scheduled Atlanta Mobile games and its attendant "cup day" ceremonies.

The game will be played as part of a double-header tonight, the first game being scheduled to start at 7:30. Ladies' night has been moved up to tonight to give the fair patrons a second chance to watch the Crackers.

And it's a real chance this time. The attendance cap will not be presented until some later date. John D. Martin, league president, who was to have acted Tuesday night, is forced to move on by his schedule. He will be in Birmingham today, saying the Crackers his first official act of the season.

Martin announced last night that he would ask Bobby Jones to act in his stead. The Crackers management will fix the date later.

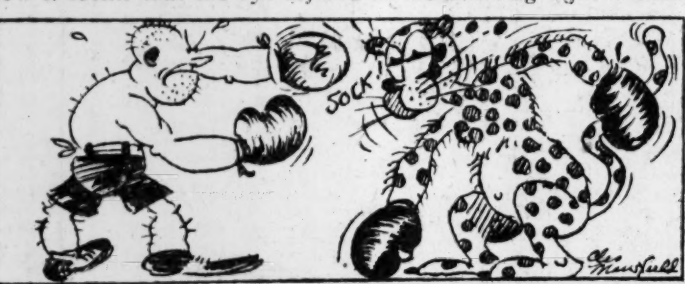

B. C., that is to say, Before Cleveland, the name of Jack Sharkey was received in most quarters with derision and uncouth words.

But now that the heavyweight toga is being worn around and up and down Unter Den Linden by a heavy-browed but affable young man, one hears the name of the Loud Lith mentioned with frequency, and minus many familiar adjectives it was wont to know.

If the Big Bluster could change his spots, something which our big game hunters say the leopard is unable to do, he would have an excellent opportunity. Especially since Max Schmeling, the champion of every nation but New York, is apparently on the dodge for the Primo Carnera fight in September.

There was no hint of anything wrong with the fight when the champion was sailing and his manager was signing. But now it seems that the eye injured in the Stribling fight is causing trouble and Max must not do any boxing for a few months. It is a bit surprising to hear from Max Schmeling, an awfully nice chap, that Stribling stuck a thumb in his eye in the first round of the Cleveland fight.

Stribling hit Schmeling with left jabs several times in that first round. But what the German boy is suffering from is a load of buckshot. And not a thumb.

THE BUCKSHOT PUNCH.

It came in the first round, just before the bell. Stribling was punching Schmeling around the ring with those left jabs, mixing in an occasional right.

Just two seconds before the bell, Stribling whipped over that famous buckshot punch. It landed high, just under the eye. And Schmeling backed away as the bell rang.

The blow hurt the champion. Any other man, with less recuperative power, would have come out weakened after that blow. Schmeling came out strong to lose three more rounds before he began to go ahead. By then the eye was closing.

It is unwise of Max to say that it was Stribling's thumb. And it makes him look no better to add that the blow which hurt worst was when a Stribling uppercut knocked his (Schmeling's) wrist up against his chin.

At any rate Schmeling's eye is likely to give the Sharkey man his break. If the champion does not fight in September, the gates will be ajar for the Garrulous Goh to step in and make the most of it. He has fumbled the ball many times, as witness the Scott and Dempsey fights, but the Boston boy can fight.

If he will just change his spots, the spots which made several fights look funny, he will go far. He hasn't picked his spots in the climb up the ladder but he should change them if he can.

And he'll have a chance next week.

THE REAL ENIGMA.

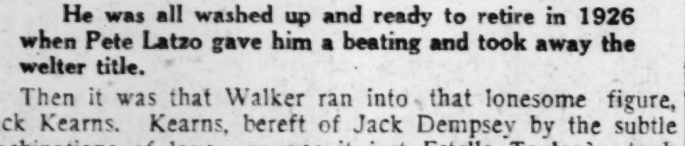

The Boston heavyweight fights Mickey Walker July 22 in a fight which stands now as one of the strangest on the record.

Just why Sharkey should have selected a good middleweight as his opponent is one of the questions which has the boys winking.

He must win by a knockout to keep his record going as it should to grasp the September opportunity. And Mickey Walker, a little man but a great puncher and fighter such as no other division knows, may give him trouble.

In fact a victory by Walker would not bring on any deaths from surprise. The Toy Bulldog is a snarling batter, one of the few who can punch the body and hurt. Which is surprising in a man about town.

Mickey Walker is one of the real enigmas of the ring. He has been swinging those gloves for about 18 of his 30 years. Eleven of them have been in the professional ranks. Before that Walker boxed as an amateur and in kid fights around clubs. He was all washed up and ready to retire in 1926 when Pete Latzo gave him a beating and took away the welter title.

Then it was that Walker ran into that lonesome figure, Jack Kearns. Kearns, bereft of Jack Dempsey by the subtle machinations of love—or was it just Estelle Taylor?—took over Walker then.

Walker was hitting most of the hot spots then. And is now. Or was until he started training. He is to be seen at the bar in speaks and up at all hours on the dance floors.

And yet when the time comes to fight, Mickey Walker can leave the highball glass on the bar as Cincinnati left the plow in the field, and go out to fight. The Sharkey man has a fight on his hands, a real one. And it might ruin his September opportunity.

RINKY DINKS TIE TERRORS TEAM IN SANDLOT FILT

Seven Nines Left in City Tourney; Next Games Thursday.

By Max Hall.

Rain washed away a great pitcher's battle in the city sandlot tournament at Piedmont park Tuesday morning, leaving the quarter-final game between the Rinky-Dinks and North Side Terrors, two of Atlanta's best kid teams, in a seven-inning 0-0 deadlock.

Also ended the contest between the East Side Robins and South Side Robins in the fourth inning, rendering it void. The other two contests were decided when it rained. The Blue Devils beat the Fulton Blues 7-2 and the Grant Park Indians beat the Jonesboro Confederates 3-0.

The Fulton Blues are now eliminated from the tourney, leaving the teams in the running. The Rinky-Dinks and North Side Terrors, who will begin their series again Thursday, and the Grant Park Indians, who need one more victory over Jonesboro to enter the semi-finals, seem to be the major threats in the tourney. Others still in the meet are the Robins, the East Side Robins, South Side Robins and Blue Devils.

That Rinky-Dink-Terror game was a thriller. Joel Grayson, hurler for the Rinky-Dinks, also a Boys' High pitcher, and Johnny Marion, of the Terrors, also a Tech High player, put up a great exhibition.

THREE TEAMS FAVORED.

Right now, in the midst of the quarter-finals of the tournament, the three teams, the Robins, the Grant Park Indians, appear to be the class of the city. It is probable that one of these three teams will go on to win the city meet and represent Atlanta in the state tourney at Gainesville beginning July 28.

There were four games in progress at Piedmont Park Tuesday morning before the downpour, but all the interest was in the Rinky-Dink-Terror contest played on the northwest diamond. A large crowd came out to see the two outfits play. Among the spectators were K. E. Elberfeld, Bobby Walton, Cliff McGaughey and others well-known in baseball circles.

The two clubs showed real class. They both well-coached, and they hustled all the way.

The Rinky Dinks are coached by R. L. (Shorty) Doyal, head coach at Boys' High school. Most of the players go to Boys' High, and the rivalry even more keen between the two teams; almost all the Terrors come from Tech High.

GREAT MANAGER.

The Terrors are managed by Rache Bell, the little hunchback who has gained the respect of all baseball players who know him. Bell is a regular in the national baseball league; he has managed a number of winning teams, and has studied baseball all his life. He is now a student at the University of Georgia, where he coached the sophomore team to a championship last spring. The little fellow knows baseball, and how to manage a team.

The Rinky Dinks, from West End, have an interesting history. They are an athletic club with a meeting place and everything, and have entered all kinds of teams in sandlot competition for the past five or six years.

The state Gainesville two weeks from now will bring together 14 of Georgia's leading kid teams from all sections of the state. Atlanta is sure to have a strong entry, whatever team wins. Those Terrors and Rinky Dinks are good. And the Grant park team shows power.

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—The formation of a club to be known as the Augusta National Golf Club with Bobby Jones as one of the organizers was announced here today.

Dr. Alastair MacKenzie, noted Scotch designer of many links, will draw the plans and supervise the construction of the golf course in connection with the new club. The course will be built on a site selected from some 365 acres adjoining the property of the Augusta Country Club. Jones and MacKenzie today went over this tract and drew tentative designs for the new layout.

DOZEN IN FIELD SET FOR FIGHT AT EAST LAKE

Four Places Open; July 28 Is Day of Local Play.

By Roy White.

Six Atlanta golfers will be in the field of 12 which will attempt to qualify Tuesday, July 28, on the East Lake Country Club course for play in the 35th national amateur golf championship tournament to begin August 31 on the Beverly Country Club course at Chicago. It was announced Tuesday by the United States Golf Association. The fifth district, with Atlanta as headquarters, has been allotted four places in the national events.

The Atlantans entered include Gene Cook, Berrien Moore Jr., Charlie Yates Jr. and Scott Hudson Jr., from the East Lake Country Club, and Julius Hughes and Bobby Chambers, from the Druid Hills Club.

Other entries from this district include Darden Hampton and Pollock Boyd, Chatsworth, Tenn.; Billy McWilliams, Rome, Ga.; Carl Dunn, Asheville, N. C.; Jack Toomer, Jacksonville, Fla.; and James R. Topper, Nashville, Tenn.

Officials of the U. S. G. A. announced that 525 entries had been received from all sections of the country and that 130 players will play in the 12 district eliminations July 28. A gold medal will be awarded by the U. S. G. A. to the player returning the low score in each district. In case of a tie, the local committee will arrange for a playoff of 18 holes within a five-day period.

Some of the best golfers in the southern states are included in the dozen entries from this district. Cook, Moore and Yates have won a Georgia amateur title twice each. He also won the Georgia open crown last year.

Yates was a quarter-finalist in the recent southern amateur and last week won the Georgia state title on the Sea Island Beach course.

Moore has been consistently around the top for several years and won the Albany invitation tourney several years ago. He was a quarter-finalist in the southern amateur last year. Hudson was captain of the Tech team last year and is just beginning to make his front ranks of Atlanta's golf circle.

Hughes won the city amateur two years ago, led the amateurs in the southern states in 1928, and was runner-up in the Montgomery invitation several weeks ago.

Bobby Chambers has failed to win a major Georgia title but has been around the top for several years. McWilliams won medal honors in the Georgia amateur title twice and is the best golfer in north Georgia.

Boyd and Hampton are veteran Chatsworth players. Boyd was a state and other southern title runner-up has played in a half dozen national open qualifying rounds and also in the national amateur last year. Dunn have ranked at the top in their respective states for several years.

Johnnie Goodman, of Omaha, conqueror of Bobby Jones in 1926, stood second in the preliminary list. The most conspicuous absentee, besides Jones, will be George Von Elm, who forsook an amateur status last winter and came so close to winning the national open at Toledo.

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—(AP)—Jimmy London, recognized in some states as heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Karl Pojello, of Chicago, in 50 minutes and 4 seconds here tonight. London weighed 200, Pojello 192.

ST. LOUIS 3; BOSTON 2

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—(AP)—The Cardinals won the eighth, scoring a double-header in the sixth inning, to give the Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox in a pitchers' battle today.

Joe Haines and Jim Lindner, who pitched duty for the winners, gave up six hits, while the leaders got to Denny Vance for seven.

The victory placed the Cardinals five and a half games in front of the New York Giants, who were going to Chicago, and seven games ahead of Brooklyn.

Martin Says Present League Membership Will Remain Unchanged

MOBILE OWNER MAKES PROGRESS IN FIRST YEAR

Has No Idea of Making
Change; Attendance
Holds Up Well.

By Ralph McGill.

John D. Martin, president of the Southern basketball association, declared here Tuesday afternoon that he believed the organization to be permanently stable and in no danger of undergoing any franchise changes in the future.

Bird Douglas, the courageous gentleman who rushed in at Mobile, where even angels might be feared to tread, was emphatic in his declaration that he was in Mobile to stay, he being present when the league head made his announcement.

In fact, this was not for the first time that Mr. Douglas is by nature a genial and kind man, he might be tempted to take a swing at some of his questioners who come up and ask if he is going to sell out to Knoxville, Montgomery or other way stations.

HURT MARINES. "The newspapers have unwittingly hurt Douglas at Mobile by printing rumors that he was going to sell out to Knoxville or some other city," said Martin.

"You see the fans had all that thing last year. They made a great thing out of it. This year finds them about 15 per cent ahead of last season's attendance mark. And any time they read in some paper that Mobile is going to be sold out again they become alarmed and lose faith in their owners."

"Mr. Douglas has given me every assurance that he is going to stick in Mobile this year and next year as well," continued the league president. "Little Rock is in better shape than ever. They are already at work building the new hall park there. Nashville is sound despite the fact that the club is not going very well."

LEAGUE DOES WELL. "The association president, who has done a great amount of constructive work, is encouraged by the manner in which the league is weathering a so-called depression."

"We are just about 7 per cent off in attendance compared with last season," said the president. "Other business heads tell me they are off much more than that. I am delighted with conditions."

Atlanta came in for a good hand from the league head.

"I think Atlanta is a magnificent city," he said. "The team here is outdrawing the others by a good margin. I think Atlanta has loyal fans. I am also delighted with the manner in which Joe Engel, the owner at Chattanooga, has developed that city. It is a great basketball center."

PRESENTS TROPHY. President Martin came to Atlanta to present to the Atlanta club the attendance trophy won by the Crackers in competition with Birmingham, New Orleans and Memphis. On Monday night he awarded the Chattanooga club the Class "B" trophy.

During the past winter, when the league was in an unstable condition, President Martin did some very fine constructive work in rehabilitating the league in a couple of weak spots. Mr. Martin and Mr. Douglas left Atlanta Tuesday night.

THE SPORTLIGHT By Krautman Rice

Slipping the Laurel.

This might have been known as Laurel Week or Olive Week in sport. On Monday, in spite of closed and tottering banks, they gave Max Schmeling a big welcome in Germany and last night the Round Hill Club, Greenwich, slipped Bill Burke all the laurel he could carry home in a truck.

Max Schmeling had only to beat Stribling in something less than 45 minutes, and he did the job with more than average éclat. Bill Burke had to iron his way through 1,151 entries and he had to use up five hard days to get there. It might be noted in the two cases of Schmeling and Burke that both were long on stamina. Burke played his greatest round on the last spin after three hard weeks of golf, and Schmeling, at the end of 15 rounds, seemed to be just warming up for a finish fight, going back to the old two and three-hour affairs.

Both champions proved they had the fiber for the long haul, which ought to be an important ingredient in all championship contests, since it is based largely on condition.

The Pressure. Of the two, Burke was far more weary than Schmeling. This may seem strange when you consider golf against fighting or boxing. But the answer is simple. Schmeling had an active sport to face which scattered tension. Burke was under heavy nerve pressure for several days in a game where the haunting ghost of tension is always at hand. There is no weariness quite like that of tired nerves. It goes far beyond any mere physical weariness.

One open golf champion, some time back, admitted that it took him more than two weeks to get right again, so that he could sleep and eat with his accustomed ease.

"For about two weeks," he said, "I was just tired all the time." Bobby Jones came to Worcester weighing 154 pounds. "When I left," he said at Inverness, "I weighed 138." The loss of 16 pounds in a few days was partly due to the nerve and mental strain.

Attendance Records. This was the season when baseball was supposed to face a falling off in public interest. On the contrary, the clubs have had to turn away more pop-eyed fanatics than ever before.

New York, Brooklyn, Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia have all had larger crowds on big days, and other cities, even down to the end of the list, have tied their best figures.

The Boston Braves have had a big year. As a rule hope springs eternal in the baseball breast up to July 1. After that it begins to wither in most of the cities. But with mid-July on and there is no sign of waning interest or attendance in the two New York camps, nor in the camps of the Athletics, Cubs, Senators, Dodgers, Braves and Cardinals. At least eight of the 16 big league teams will continue drawing them in most of the summer, which happens to be a big help to those not doing so well. If the present situation remains about the same for some weeks longer, it is almost a certainty that all attendance figures for one season will be beaten, with something to spare.

Two Barriers. The young American Davis cup team must face the British this week and then, in case of victory, tackle the French in the challenge round. Unless Frank Shields is back in top form the British have at least an outside chance. The British team is younger than the usual, though the odds still favor the United States side. After that—what about the French?

It all depends on Cochet. If he is right, any challenging team will have a hard time. But he isn't at his best now and it is more than doubtful that he can get back to his top form with so little time left.

A year ago, however, Cochet was beaten at Wimbledon by Allison, but he was a different Cochet when the cup matches were played.

Amateur Entries. Only 500 golfers have filed their entries for the next United States amateur championship, but this includes everyone with any sort of

HINES, BEAVER TAKE DOUBLES IN DIXIE MEET

Cram Brothers Beaten at Birmingham; Hume,
Cox Win.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 14.—(AP)—Wilmer Hines, Columbus, Ga., and Judge L. Beaver, Gainesville, Ga., successfully defended their southern men's doubles crown today, defeating Donald and Kendall Cram, Nashville, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2. Miss Eliza Cox, Asheville, N. C., and Charles Hume, New Orleans, La., won the mixed doubles title, defeating Miss Beatrice Bryan, Enterprise, Miss., and Melvin Tarpley, Tampa, Fla., 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

The matches finally were played today, bringing the tournament to a close after three days of playing hide and seek with thunderstorms that spotted Birmingham. They were played at Mountain Brook Club after the rain put the courts at Shades Valley where they were scheduled, out of commission.

Beaver, whose service caused his downfall against Kendall Cram in the junior singles, was the deciding factor in the victory of the defending titleholders. In nine serves he failed to put the ball in for point but once.

Hines served a like number of times, losing five of them. Donald Cram broke even in 10 serves while his young brother was weak in this department, losing five of eight. The Crams started off fast and for a time it looked like they had the match sewed up but the champions set to work in the second and continued to hold the situation in hand through the fourth and the deciding set.

Hume and Miss Cox had trouble winning the first set in taking the doubles. The match was dropped the second, 3-6. The change of scenery to Mountain Brook for the last set, however, stimulated their game and they ran through in straight victories.

Hines left immediately after the match for Charlotte, N. C., to play in the mid-Atlantic tournament, where he is seeded No. 1. He was accompanied by Harley Shuford, of Charlotte, who also is entered in the mid-Atlantic.

Winners in other events of the meet follow:

Junior singles, Donald Cram. Women's singles, Miss Anna Koll, New Orleans. Boys' doubles, Ramsey Potts, Memphis. Girls' doubles, Miss George F. Smoot, Weirmouth.

Junior doubles, Kendall Cram and Judge L. Beaver. Boys' doubles, Jack Wright, Hot Springs, Ark., and Dan Mark, Memphis. Women's doubles, Miss Eliza Cox, Asheville, and Miss Koll, New Orleans.

Julian Carr Wins In Charlotte Meet.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 14.—(AP)—Four seeded players swung into action today in the mid-Atlantic tennis championships, easily defeating their opponents in the first round.

Another of the select list, Lucas Able, of High Point, advanced by default of Ted Peck, Charlotte, while Wilmer Hines, defending champion, seeded No. 1, and Melvin Tarpley, Tampa, Fla., No. 3, wired from Birmingham in the second round.

The tournament is being expected to arrive tomorrow to begin play.

Hines, who, with Judge L. Beaver, of Gainesville, Ga., successfully defended the southern doubles title at Birmingham, will meet Les Marsh, of Charlotte, in the second round of the mid-Atlantic. Tarpley's opponent will be B. K. Cochet, of Cleveland, S. C. Lenor Wright, Charlotte, seeded No. 2, launched his drive for honors in the meet with a slashing 6-4, 6-2 victory over Jack Wright, Hot Springs, Ark. Wright is rated as one of Hines' most dangerous foes in the battle for the title.

Robert McMillan, Newburgh, Wis., defending champion, moved ahead at the expense of Arthur Simpler, Detroit, 6-3, 6-3.

Lessons In GOLF By Roy Grove

HORTON SMITH'S
KICK IS ON A STRAIGHT LINE
WITH A STIFF
LEFT ARM

Copyright 1931, General Press

The average golfer could learn more from the style and form of Horton Smith than most any other professional in the game.

Smith on all irons and from the tee has the reputation of sporting an abbreviated swing. This means control and a long ball with the use of the wrists, the fundamentals of consistent golf.

Billy Burke, the present national open champion, is not unlike Smith in many respects.

Burke does not depend on distance, but accuracy. He is satisfied with the average drive if it is straight down the middle, and a long iron rolling to the pin.

The average golfer is not content with a well-timed swing, but will try to reach the green from the tee. Consequently he loses much of the distance and roll from the drive and the irons are out to stop short of the green.

Smith's stance takes the club virtually on a straight line with a stiff left arm and he keeps it so throughout the swing. This is done on the driver as well as with the irons. This method gives him complete control and grooves the swing for the downward shot.

With the swing grooved, Smith hits with the right hand on through the ball, punching the right hand out toward the hole.

It is a hard thing to provide the average golfer will not try to get all the power of his right hand into the ball at the point of contact. Develop the left and punch with the right.

JACK SHARKEY GIVEN LESSONS BY SPAR MATES

Big Gob Fails in All But
One Round To Show
Anything.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., July 14.—(UP)—Jack Sharkey, who fought Mickey Walker in a 15-round bout at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, a week from tomorrow was outpointed by four of his five sparring partners today.

Sharkey won only one round of 15 five-round boxing tests—the longest ring workout of his current training. With only ten rounds of actual fighting to his credit since February, 1929, Sharkey clearly shows the need of boxing practice and he was an easy target today for his lighter partners.

Three light-heavyweights, Jack Folsom of Newark, Joe Banovic, of Binghamton, and Yale Okun, of New York, and a heavy, Paul Cavalier, Paterson, N. J., pounded their enemy almost at will and took little punishment in return. Banovic made the best showing and opened cuts over both of Sharkey's eyes.

Jack Renault made no attempt to punch and was outroughed by Sharkey in a brief clinching session.

Indians Won't Get Stadium This Year

CLEVELAND, July 14.—(AP)—Failure of city council to act on legislation to grant the Cleveland baseball club a lease on the new Cleveland stadium for its home games made it virtually certain that the Indians will not play in the huge arena this season.

City Manager Daniel E. Morgan informed the club that the consensus of council members was that the rental bid was "lower than the city could accept."

In response to a question whether the club had made its best offer, Alva Bradley, president, said its bid "cannot be altered" and that "when city officials see the picture as it really is we can talk business."

It had been planned to stage the first American league game in the stadium on July 26 between the Indians and the world champion Philadelphia Athletics.

Bradley said the maximum the club would pay is $50,000 base rental, plus 15 per cent of gross receipts over $25,000 a season and the cost of keeping up the playing field.

Discussion in council has revolved around a $50,000 base rental, 10 per cent of receipts between $50,000 and $100,000, 15 per cent between $100,000 and $1,200,000 and 20 per cent on income above the last figure.

Watch Out, Records! Here's Jack Burnett

Mississippi Youngster Is Expected To Shatter
Conference Dash Marks.

By Dillon Graham.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

If Jack Burnett, of the University of Mississippi, is in shape next track season the present southern conference century and furlong dash records aren't going to be worth the paper they're written on.

This slender path flash from Ole Miss stepped out in his first big competition at the New Orleans A. A. U. meet and set meet records for the 100 and 220-yard dashes. He ran the hundred in 9.8 and the two-twenty in 21.2 seconds.

Later at Lincoln, Neb., in the national A. A. U. carnival, Burnett established records in the junior division for the same distances when he ran the hundred in 9.6 and the longer route in 21.3 seconds.

His 9.6 second time in the Lincoln race was just one-tenth of a second slower than the accepted world mark of 9.5 seconds.

Burnett's great development this year is shown in his cutting four-tenths of a second off his hundred time in a single track season. Before he entered the university as a freshman last fall the best he had ever done for the 100-yard dash was 10 seconds.

Under the careful coaching of K. P. Gatchell, Mississippi track mentor, Burnett worked until he had clipped nearly a half second off his time.

Burnett's fastest "hundred" is two-tenths of a second faster than K. P. Gatchell, Mississippi track mentor, of Georgia Tech, and Foster, of V. M., jointly hold the present mark of 9.8 seconds. Last year Kelly, of Kentucky, won in the comparatively slow time of 10.1 seconds at Birmingham but in the preliminary winner, of Virginia, completed the distance in 9.8 seconds.

Hamm's mark of 21.2 seconds for the 220-yard dash, which stands as the conference record, tallies with Johnny's low time to date, but Burnett has three seasons ahead and if he brought along right he probably will better this time.

Burnett won every 100-yard race he entered while in high school and has since been beaten but twice. At the New Orleans A. A. U. senior events, Emmett Toppino, of Loyola, of New Orleans, edged him in both the 100 and 220.

LEBRIX AND DORET ABANDON FLIGHT

Frenchmen Strip Hypen Preparatory To Leaving Siberian Town.

MOSCOW, July 14.—(P)—Dropped down in the middle of Siberia in their attempt to fly without stop from Paris to Tokyo, Joseph Lebrix and his two companions planned tonight to come to Moscow by train.

Two of those in the airplane came down in parachutes, the Tass agency reports; the third brought the plane to earth, where the motor fell out because of the shock of the forced landing.

One of the pilots—it was unknown here whether Lebrix or Marcel Doret—was injured in one leg, and the mechanic, Rene Mesnin, was slightly hurt on the head.

The condition of the plane was such that the trio decided not to accept the offer of a Soviet plane to fly to Moscow, but to entrain Thursday, taking with them all the salvageable parts of the Hypen. A train journey from Nijniudinsk, about 2,400 miles east of Moscow, requires four or five days.

Aviation mechanics arrived today at the scene of the accident, a little more than two miles from Shrepti, and began collecting the Hypen's remains. The wings were broken, but the fuselage was virtually intact.

The fliers had covered approximately 3,300 miles of the 6,000 miles distance from Paris to Tokyo when they were forced down.

ENDRES AND MAGYAR PLAN EARLY START

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., July 14.—(P)—George Endres and Alexander Magyar, Hungarian army reserve officers, who hope to make a non-stop flight to Budapest, Hungary, in their airplane Justice to Hungary, planned tonight to take off tomorrow morning, weather permitting.

The Hungarians refueled and checked their plane, a low winged Lockheed, at the Harbor Grace airport this afternoon. They received weather reports which indicated atmospheric conditions on this side of the Atlantic were good, but were otherwise on the European side.

The projected flight would be made to call attention, Endres and Magyar said, to wrongs which they contended had been inflicted upon Hungary by other nations at the conclusion of the World War.

Their plane has a cruising speed of 160 to 175 miles an hour and will carry a fuel load of 450 gallons of gasoline. The fliers flew to Harbor Grace late yesterday afternoon from Roosevelt Field, Long Island.

FORT WORTH RETURNS TO PLAN PACIFIC HOP

SEATTLE, July 14.—(P)—The monoplane Fort Worth was back in Seattle today being groomed for another attempted non-stop refueling flight from here to Tokyo for a $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper.

Flown back from Fairbanks, Alaska, in 19 1/2 hours, Reg L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, Texas fliers, set the ship down at Boeing field at 4:56 p. m. (7:58 p. m. eastern standard time) yesterday. They said they fought weather all the way.

Robbins said the second attempted refueling flight to Tokyo would be made within two weeks. Leaving here last Wednesday, the Fort Worth was flown to Alaska, and refueled over Fairbanks, but was forced down at Solomon, Alaska, ending its first attempt to reach Japan without a stop.

YERRINGTON AND MALONEY ARRIVE AT MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, July 14.—(P)—Seth Yerrington and Edward Maloney, whose flight from New York to Mexico City was interrupted yesterday by a forced landing 60 miles from Tampico, arrived at Mexico City at 1:30 p. m. in a passenger plane.

The fliers arrived at Valbuena civil airport in a regular passenger plane from Tampico. They were received by a delegation of officers of the presidential military staff, representing President Ortiz Rubio, and 25 military pilots, headed by Colonel Roberto Fierro, who last year made a non-stop flight from New York to Mexico City.

COTTON RATE RULING REITERATED BY I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—The interstate commerce commission today affirmed its previous finding that five cents a hundred pounds is a proper charge for stoppage in transit of cotton from points in southeastern Missouri and northern Arkansas reshipped to interstate destinations.

The charge was placed on cotton stopped for ginning, grading and compressing.

HENDERSON IN PARIS TO FURTHER DEBT PLAN

PARIS, July 14.—(P)—Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson arrived from London this evening for a two-day stay in Paris before going to Berlin to return the London visit in June of Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curtius.

Mr. Henderson has made no effort to hide the fact that his visit to Paris before going to Berlin has the political purpose of reconciling the French and German views in regard to carrying out the Hoover war debt plan, and to the extension of further financial aid to Germany.

Tomorrow he will be given a luncheon at the French foreign office by Aristide Briand, foreign minister. At that time he will have an opportunity to hear from Premier Laval, Finance Minister Flandin and M. Briand the exact position France has taken in regard to political guarantees from Germany in connection with financial aid for the reich.

The British foreign secretary arrived in Paris on Bastille Day, the celebration of which had a distinctly colonial and imperial tone. France's position as the world's second colonial empire was marked by a procession of troops representing 300 years of history.

Mr. Henderson's first official act in Paris will be to visit the Colonial exposition tomorrow morning.

Colonel Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, will arrive in Paris Wednesday, while Mr. Henderson still is here, and will be in position to learn the French point of view regarding the coming disarmament conference. France's attitude has been set forth in a memorandum which will be given to Mr. Henderson as president of the disarmament conference.

The relations between France and Germany, it was understood tonight, may be kept more or less in the background by the French. The immediate problem, however, was for Mr. Henderson to act as conciliator between Paris and Berlin, specifically on the question of political guarantees demanded of Germany in return for French financial aid.

ROOSEVELT LAUDED BY J. HAM LEWIS

ALBANY, N. Y., July 14.—(P)—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt lunched together today and then had a long conference. Lewis later said 1932 presidential candidates were not discussed.

The senator said Governor Roosevelt "has a strong following in all the middle west." "He is admired," he said, "for his independence on public questions, particularly for his advanced views on relief from the business depression and for his attitude on international questions, following closely after the idealism of Woodrow Wilson."

He said the democratic party should fight an offensive battle in 1932, calling its national convention ahead of that of the republican, and "declare where the evils of government now exist and in what way the party managers in power are responsible, throw them on the defensive and go to the people all over the nation demanding that democracy be put in power that it may give relief from present conditions."

5 TENNESSEANS HELD FOR MURDER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 14.—(P)—The Shelby county grand jury today indicted five men on charges of first degree murder in connection with the robbery and burning of the Bank of Barretville, Tenn., May 10, in which Jim McFerrin, 23-year-old watchman, lost his life.

McFerrin's charred body, with a bullet hole in the back, was found in the ruins of the bank the day after the robbery in which $200 in pennies was obtained.

Preston O. Copeland, Chester Pryor, William S. Johnson, John T. Asher and L. F. Wheeler were named in the indictments.

Attorney-General W. T. McLain said he would ask death in the electric chair for all five. McLain said all except Wheeler admitted a part in the robbery, but that all deny killing McFerrin.

BLACKMAIL CHARGED BY MISSISSIPPI LAWYER

JACKSON, Miss., July 14.—(P)—George B. Crafts, general counsel for Warren Brothers Roads Company, of Boston, said he considered his firm was being blackmailed when he paid Carl Marshall, Mississippi attorney, $80,000 at a Memphis conference two years ago.

Crafts said he did not believe that Marshall was doing the "blackmailing," but that it was instigated and fostered by Sam Latham, former Jackson attorney, whom Marshall represented, and P. E. Marvin, former employee of the Warrens.

Payment of the money, Crafts said in depositions taken in the Mississippi supreme court's disbarment cases against Marshall, Latham, Lester C. Franklin, chairman of the state tax commission and candidate for governor, and District Attorney J. H. Howie, of Jackson, was to secure the return of confidential trade papers that Latham and Marvin had "wrongfully gotten possession of."

Propaganda Probed.

BRUSSELS, July 14.—(P)—Twelve Belgian military pilots who flew over a town near Brussels in an air parade yesterday were arrested today for investigation. Authorities were trying to identify the pilot who dropped leaflets reading "Down with the King."

NEW MEXICO PEN CHOSEN FOR FALL

Day Is Added to Sentence To Permit Evasion of District Jail.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—Albert Bacon Fall, secretary of the interior in the Harding administration, will serve his sentence of a year and a day in the penitentiary at Santa Fe, N. M., his home state. The New Mexico prison was chosen today by Attorney-General Mitchell after Justice Bailey, of the District of Columbia supreme court, had added a day to his jail sentence of a year.

The change was made to enable the attorney general to choose a prison more suitable to the health of the former cabinet officer than the District of Columbia jail.

Fall is expected to go to the penitentiary as soon as the warrant for his commitment is sent to a United States marshal or prison officials.

He served as senator from New Mexico before becoming secretary of the interior and was a territorial judge before New Mexico became a state.

Fall was convicted in October, 1929, of accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, oil operator, for the lease of the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve to a Doheny company.

Graf Zeppelin Tour Is Delayed by Crisis

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 14.—(UP)—Germany's financial plight is too grave to permit aircraft junkies, in the opinion of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin. He accordingly announced today that the Graf Zeppelin's tour of England, scheduled for July 16, has been indefinitely postponed.

Because extensive preparations and expenditures have already been made in connection with the proposed arctic flight, this trip will be taken as planned, Dr. Eckener said.

AL CAPONE DRIVEN FROM NEW 'RACKET'

CHICAGO, July 14.—(P)—The Herald and Examiner said today that the impending overthrow of Al Capone's underworld supremacy as a result of the federal government's prosecution was apparent in his failure to usurp control of the Chicago Cleaners and Dyers' Institute.

The gang chief is reputed to have begun a campaign to force his way into control last spring, but encountered strenuous opposition from the cleaners.

Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, chairman of the institute, said yesterday that Capone, since his conviction of income tax fraud and liquor law violation, has abandoned efforts to take over the cleaners.

His condition was said to be critical. The child was recovering.

The new president succeeds Dr. Chaim Weizmann, whose right hand he has been for many years.

Good - they've got to be good!

Fred and Adele Astaire in Broadway's new musical hit, "The Band Wagon"

Darn good—you'll say!

Everybody wants a mild cigarette. And when you find one that is milder and tastes better too—you've got a smoke!

Chesterfields are so much milder that you can smoke as many as you like. They're made to smoke milder. And you know they taste better the moment you light up. They're made to do that too! Mild, ripe, sweet-tasting tobaccos—the best that money can buy. That's what it takes to make a cigarette as good as Chesterfield. And the purest cigarette paper!

Every Chesterfield is well-filled. Burns evenly. Smokes cool and comfortable. They Satisfy sums it all up!

Daniel Marshall, the first Baptist minister in Georgia, and the organizer of Kiokee church in 1771, in Columbia county, Georgia. The late Mrs. Abi Pittman Elder was of that branch of the family of Pittman, which has borne a constructive part in every community. Mrs. C. K. Henderson has in her possession letters and documents which prove conclusively the part John Pittman played in the Baptist colony in Columbia county. Among other names enrolled on the roster of this illustrious family are James Pittman, who married Martha Taylor, of Virginia, and settled in Columbia county, Georgia; Philip Pittman, who was commissioned to select the county site for Decatur county, and named it Bainbridge, and who laid out the town and supervised the construction of its public buildings; Timothy Pittman, who lived in Clay county, and Buckner Pittman, Mary Pittman Rogers, Martha Pittman Langston, Zilpha Pittman Noble and Grace Pittman Andrews.

A white wicker prie-dieu marked the center of the altar, the white satin pillow being fringed with swansons and narrow white ribbons, and cathedral candelabra holding a white candle flanked either side of the altar.

Beware
when told
"It's just like Kotex"

WHEN a substitute claims to be "just like Kotex," ask where it was made. By whom. How. Is it used by leading hospitals?

Only when these questions are answered to your complete satisfaction, as Kotex answers them, can any substitute justify its claim, "just like Kotex."

After all, why take risks? You know the wonderful safety of Kotex—the world's standard in sanitary protection. Don't give up this assurance... even if a few pennies' saving is offered by a nameless substitute, of whose makers you know nothing.

Every refinement of comfort is offered by Kotex. Its softness lasts. It is adjustable, disposable, and may be worn on either side. It is treated to deodorize.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your names held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I have never seen my problem in your column although I look for it every day. I am a business woman of thirty-five. I have a beau just the same age. He is kind and considerate of everyone, a man of fine character, a steady worker although he doesn't make a large salary. He is the very type to make a good husband. I have every reason to believe that he would do his full part toward making me a happy home. Sometimes I adore him and could follow him to the ends of the earth, and at other times I am cold and hearted toward him and don't want him to come near me. I have always loved tall, slender men, and this man is fat and getting fatter. He weighs more than two hundred and one hundred eighty would be quite enough. I am constantly getting after him about his weight, urging him to take exercise and reduce. I am afraid he would get more careless after marriage. Now the point is, would I consider a thing like this if I really loved him? Should I marry him and take a change on being happy or should I remain single and probably regret that I let a good man slip by? I can't analyze my feelings for him. Your advice will be a great help. M. E.

ANSWER:

One of the hardest things to do is to talk intelligently about a subject of which we have a glimmering of knowledge. When a little boy in our first school used to say to his teacher, in response to a question put to him, "I know, but I can't explain it," she answered him the same way every time. "If you don't know it well enough to explain it, you don't know it at all. Study your lesson again. Protestingly he complied with the order."

For some inexplicable reason there is often between lovers a sort of antagonism that shows its head and when the lovers get ready to strike it disappears, only to make its appearance later when it is least expected. Every woman has experienced it, been puzzled by it, been frightened for fear she was making a fatal mistake and about the time she was preparing to do something about it, it disappears. This experience is not necessarily in the class. It may be that you are a person very susceptible to physical ugliness, and fat certainly falls in that class, in the view of many. Or again, it may be that the proprietary instinct is strongly developed in you; and you resent any evidence of weakness in the man you love, weakness that you cannot control.

Whatever the cause may be, it is perfectly absurd, for a thirty-five-year-old business woman, used to dealing with the cold hard facts of business, and used to dealing with the poor frail creatures that make business, should have more common sense and more self-control than to let a matter of a few pounds of flesh cut her out of a good husband and a happy home. Any weakness in a man's character is deplorable, whether it be food or drink or any other physical fault. But, dear woman, when the woman is perfect, then and only then, can she demand the same of the man. Ten to one you have some fault or weakness that is just as heinous in the sight of the man, but he either puts up with it or at least keeps his mouth shut about it.

A woman of your age will not likely have many chances at marriage and a home, and if she wants to get married she might as well realize that no man is 100 per cent. They all develop irritating traits after marriage that you never dreamed of before marriage, and while you are making up your mind to control your aversion to fat you may make it up to control your aversion to a dozen other things of whose existence you haven't dreamed.

I heard a most amazing conversation between some married women the other day. This subject or a kindred one came up for discussion. The last one of them acknowledged that she wanted to back out of her marriage when the time approached. Every one of them adores her husband to this day, and every one recognized it as a huge joke for which she couldn't account and one that she was glad she hadn't played on herself. For it is on yourself that you are planning to play this joke: "Don't give up the prospect of a good marriage because the man's appetite is too big, and he won't take exercise." CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

A PRETTY
"BOLEDO FROCK"

Designed in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 10-year size will require 2 3/4 yards of 30-inch material if made as shown in the large view. Without the bolero the dress will require 2 yards. The bolero alone will require 3/4 yard. To finish with bias binding as shown in the large view will require 5 1/4 yards 1 1/2 inch wide.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A CHARMING AFTERNOON FROCK.

7227. Printed silk in black and white with trimming of white crepe is pictured here. The dress may be made with short sleeves, trimmed with a small flare ruffle, or with plain fitted long sleeves. It may also be developed without sleeves. The skirt is gored in narrow flare sections which create pleasing low placed fullness. A flare bertha collar outlines the deep V of the neck, which is squared with a small vestee.

Designed in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. To make a 38-inch size as shown in the large view, will require 5 yards of printed material, and 1 1/2 yard of plain material 35 inches wide. To make with long sleeves as in the small back view will require 5 1/2 yards 35 inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge with fullness extended is 3 1/3 yards. Miss Carrier, of Athens, Weds Mr. Earnest at Quiet Ceremony

ATHENS, Ga., July 14.—Mr. and Mrs. William Bruce Carrier announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Chellis to Robert Lee Earnest, of Carrollton, Ga. The marriage ceremony was quietly solemnized Saturday, June 20, at All Saints Episcopal church in Atlanta, with Dr. W. W. Menninger reading the nuptial service in the presence of a small group of close friends.

The bride, a lovely blonde, was smartly gowned in navy blue crepe with hat and accessories to match. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies. There were no attendants at the marriage ceremony.

Mrs. Earnest is the only daughter of her parents, who are among the most prominent citizens of Athens. She attended school at Lucy Cobb institute and finished her education at St. Mary's college in Raleigh, N. C. Her only brother is W. Bruce Carrier.

Mr. Earnest is a descendant of Robert Bruce, of Scotland, the bride traces her ancestry to include a long line of distinguished forebears. She holds membership in the Huguenot Society of South Carolina. Her mother was formerly Miss Elsie Anderson, of Nashville, Tenn., and Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, is her cousin. Mr. Earnest is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Earnest, well-known citizens of Carrollton, Ga. He received his education at the University of Georgia, in Athens, from where he will graduate in August. Upon completion of his course at the university, he will accept a position with the Allied Mills, of St. Louis, Mo., where he and his bride will reside after September 1.

The announcement of the marriage is of cordial interest to a host of friends throughout the state, due to the prominence of the families represented and to the popularity of the bride and the bridegroom.

Business Woman's Club To Stage Comedy

Business Woman's Club of the Church of the Incarnation under the auspices of the cradle roll department of the Gordon Street Presbyterian church Sunday school, will present the play, "Nobody But Nancy," a whirlwind farce-comedy, at Joel Chandler Harris school auditorium (Lucile avenue at Altoona place, West End), Friday evening, July 17, at 8 o'clock. A performance of "Nobody But Nancy" was given most successfully by the Business Woman's Club of the Church of the Incarnation in May.

Pretty Nancy King, 18, and always in trouble is the despair of the whole town of Sweet Springs. To secure a coveted job from her rich Uncle Adam, who employs only married people, she writes him that she is married. This is not entirely true, for Nancy is very much single.

Uncle Adam, a newcomer, is the one man in town whom Nancy fiercely resents and detests. When news arrives that Uncle Adam is coming to town, Nancy suddenly faces the desperate necessity of finding somebody for a husband, and finding him quickly. What happens when Uncle Adam arrives, and Nancy's gasping horror, not one but three men are suddenly introduced as her husbands, among them the devoted Larry, furnishing the beginning of one of the most excitingly funny comedies ever written.

The play, under the direction of Mary Elizabeth Head, has the following cast of characters in the order of their appearance: Mrs. S. Andrews, Elizabeth Marshall; Sarah, Andrews, Natalie E. Johnson; Adeline Perkins, Grace Goss; Ted Porter, E. B. Pierce; Nancy King, Rebecca Head; Jimmy McCabe, George Goss; Larry Wilson, Tom Ewing; Adam King, Henry Kiesel; Fanny, Elizabeth Chiles; and Luella Crawford, Dorothy Chiles. Music will be furnished between the acts by Miss Santa Mueller and orchestra. The public is invited.

Theme Announced For P.-T. A. Institute.

Attention is called to the dates, July 21, 22 and 23—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday—as the correct dates of the Parent-Teacher Institute, at Athens, in some way an error has crept into the publicity with reference to the dates, and this is the effort of the president, Mrs. R. H. Hankinson, of McDonough, to set the matter right.

The institute is designed to give information concerning the congress, to provide program material and to emphasize the work to receive attention during the next year. The presence of a delegate at the institute will insure proper functioning of an organization and remove the uncertainty and the possibility of error attendant upon the old method of "each association for itself." The theme, "Working Together for Georgia's Children," is carried out throughout the entire program. "Penny-wise and pound-foolish" is a criticism that must be laid at the door of the associations failing to take advantage of this and other similar opportunities.

Board of managers of the Georgia congress meets Tuesday evening after the session of the first day, at the Georgia hotel. A day's visit to the institute at the South Georgia Teachers' College delighted Mrs. Hankinson, the president, last week. A large class, under the direction of Mrs. Guy Wells, was giving serious consideration to the matter of cooperation between parents and teachers.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Ethics and Mannerisms

A subject of fruitful discussion at the Contract table and after the game is over, is the subject of Ethics. All good Contract players maintain the very highest standard of ethics. They never consciously permit any mannerism of theirs to give information of value to a partner. The code of ethics of a Contract player is the code of a gentleman and it is because of this high standard that the game has gained such tremendous popularity throughout the world. On the other hand, while a player may not give to his partner any information in regard to his hand or in regard to a doubtful play, by hesitation or other such shady means, every player has a perfect right to take advantage of any indecision or any mannerism of an opponent. In fact, it is not only his right but his duty to his partner as such acts, unconscious though they may have been, are calculated to have some effect upon the subsequent play of the hand. A wise Contract player, even though free from any objectionable mannerisms, will adjust the tempo of his play so that no change is noticeable to an alert opponent.

In the recent match with Crook's team in London, in which my teammates were Mrs. Culbertson, Theodore A. Lightner and Waldemar von Zedwitz, I played the hand below led against Captain Kenneth Hogg and Mr. George Morris.

Result—five odd.

Captain Hogg, who sat East, opened the heart deuce. The Queen was played from dummy and Mr. Morris won with the Ace. He then led the club Ace and followed with a low spade. The play was quite correct but Mr. Morris made a serious psychological blunder. Each play followed the other with extraordinary rapidity—a direct contradiction of his ordinary custom. After leading the spade, he visibly relaxed. All this gave me food for thought and when I won the spade trick in the dummy with the King, I led the 8 of diamonds and when Mr. Morris did not cover it, I permitted it to hold. This double finesse, under the circumstances and the bidding, was almost unprecedented. The result was that I made my contract of five diamonds.

"Your play was extremely brilliant," Mr. Culbertson, remarked Mr. Morris.

"You helped me a little," I replied. The change in tempo in Mr. Morris' play had given me the one opportunity to play the hand for game.

Today's Pointer.

Only the honor-tricks and plus values can be counted when a hand is valued at a notrump bid. Length in a suit cannot be given an accurate value, as a rule, either because partner's holding in the suit is unknown or unfavorable.

In notrump bids the winning of tricks with low cards depends largely upon honors, which are indispensable stoppers and re-entries. The count of honor-tricks alone will automatically include a proportionate amount of low-card-tricks.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Atlanta Constitution. ENCLOSING A 2-CENT STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

THE GUMPS—JUST CLASS, THAT'S ALL

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

INSTALLMENT IV.

Deliberately she began to remove her graduation dress, slipping it over her head; she shook it carefully, folded it meticulously. It was a beautiful and expensive frock, a triumph of artful, costly simplicity. Grandpapa had given it her; and neither had known it would be his last gift. She smoothed it with gentle fingers, as if it had been a winding sheet. It was indeed the shroud of Sally Rutherford's earlier youth.

"I was going to spend a few days with Marcia Burke, and then go home by boat," she said presently, in a tense whisper.

"There is a 2 o'clock train which you could catch by hurrying, Sally. Don't wait to finish packing, dear—just put a few necessary things in your grip. Matilda and I will send everything else down to you. I think the sooner you reach home the better. My poor child, you are going into a house of mourning. Your grandmother is greatly in need of you. Your grandfather's sudden death was a terrible shock to her and it brought on a stroke."

"She shivered, and moaned a little, but she did not weep. After a pause she said quietly:

"Poor grandpapa, her life was bound up in his! I wonder his going didn't kill her outright. Please help me to catch that train tonight, Miss Amelia. Thank you for offering to pack the rest of my things. You and Miss Matilda have always been kind. She favored Miss Amelia with a wistful attempt at a smile.

"My sister and I have always been very fond of you, Sally. And we respect and admired your grandfather more than I can tell you. The shocking news of his death has upset us greatly. My dear . . . we are so sorry."

"Thank you," mechanically, swiftly, she was dressing for her journey. She felt stunned, she couldn't think clearly. Something frightful and incalculable had happened, and all her pleasant world had burst like a bubble. Grandpapa, the handsome, the courtly, the loving, the beneficent, was dead. And on the heels of that irremediable disaster, grandpapa—poor soul—had had a stroke.

It was a terrible journey. At the end of it waited grandpapa, who would not welcome her home this time, nor ever speak to her again. He wouldn't be waiting for her with outstretched arms, gladly, joyously, rejoicing to see her home again, the darling of his heart. Everything would be changed. There'd be no running out to the garden, whispering to new puppets to come and greet Sally, no grinning servants shaking hands with her. Grandpapa was dead. Her brain couldn't go beyond that.

She loved grandpapa, of course, and she was piteously sorry for the poor dear, but Sally's whole horizon had been bounded by her grandfather. Sally thought of Oakleigh with a passion of tenderness. Home. But Oakleigh without grandpapa? She winced. Now she was the last Rutherford! It remained for her to carry on Rutherford traditions—Oakleigh.

When Sally reached Oakleigh her grandmother lay unconscious in a hushed room, her grandfather, a willow-leafed tree in a closed and locked one. There were many people present, who greeted Sally with silent commiseration. The negro servants, with about soft-footed, their kind dark faces gone gray with fright. When they saw Miss Sally they wept. Herbert Sinclair, who was grandpapa's friend, stood by the door. His old friend's death had evidently been a frightful blow to the lawyer, for he looked wan and ill.

"Sally—Sally," he had risen from his chair, pallid, trembling. "My dear little girl—I've known you from your babyhood. Sally. Put the love Rupert bore you—and he loved you, Sally, better than anything on earth—for the love of God don't go in and look at him!"

"I don't understand." Something menacing, a smothering horror, a frightful presence approached, and, as it was, she felt her shrinking shoulder with a ghastly hand. She got to her feet and started across the room. He caught her before she could open the door and held her back.

soon as she is conscious you may go to her."

"—and grandpapa? No one has given me any detail. I only know he is gone—suddenly. Couldn't I see him, just for a minute? I won't cry, I won't make the faintest bit of noise. I'll just whisper in his ear. Please! I want to see grandpapa, Mr. Sinclair."

He grew paler, if that could be possible. He turned his eyes away from her pleading gaze, her clasped hands.

"No. I must positively forbid you, Sally. I stand in your grandfather's place just now—and I ask you to obey me as you would him—for this once. Do what I ask—go, freshen yourself, eat something, drink some tea, you'll feel better able to talk to me."

She stood staring at him with something like displaced astonishment. He was almost crying in his distress.

"You are asking me in grandpapa's name. That is an appeal I cannot refuse," said she surprisedly, somewhat haughtily, but she stayed. "Della, come upstairs with me." As she mounted the stairs, followed by brown Della, the lawyer stood looking after her. His lips trembled, and he wiped his forehead. Two or three men who had come into the hall silently followed his glance and shook their heads. Nobody spoke.

Sally bathed her face, put on a fresh dress, and went downstairs. Moses had a tempting little lunch arranged in the darkened dining room, and she ate mechanically and drank her hot tea, while he hovered around her silently. Then she sought Mr. Sinclair in the library. The lawyer was sitting before grandpapa's desk, stacks of papers piled neatly before him. The room shared with the rest of the house that still, chill atmosphere, charged with the presence of death. Even the sunlight seemed permeated with it. A dreadful conscious hush hung over Oakleigh.

"I hardly know how to tell you, Sally," began Mr. Sinclair, a tall, thin man with a long, pale face and kind brown eyes, just now full of distress. "It is a very painful duty. To begin with—your grandfather's affairs are in a most involved state—I never imagined anything so bad as this."

The old lawyer suddenly covered his face with his thin hands.

"How could poor Rupert have been so foolish?" he cried. "He was warned. Why didn't he listen to reason? Oh, my God; how am I to tell this poor child the truth?"

"Were things so hard for him, Mr. Sinclair? And to him of me, helplessly enjoying myself," cried Sally, remorsefully.

Mr. Sinclair lifted his gray head and looked at her for a moment. "Things were so bad for him; that was ruined. Everything, everything. Nothing left him—but disaster. He was swept clean, Oakleigh mortgaged to the roof." He spread out his hands helplessly. "He told me nothing. He hid the truth from me—until it was too late." He ground.

"O, poor grandpapa! And it killed him!" exclaimed Sally. For very pity unaccustomed tears flooded her eyes. "And I'm partly to blame, Mr. Sinclair. I'm sure it was on account of me he made those investments. Because of me he wasn't satisfied with what we had. He always said the last Rutherford must have plenty of money; that Oakleigh and just enough to live on decently was enough for me. I didn't pay very much attention, for I thought we had so much. What more could I ask for than I already had? I'm going to him now, Mr. Sinclair, please. I want to tell him how much he really gave me, how much I love him, how much I love and honor him."

"Sally—Sally," he had risen from his chair, pallid, trembling. "My dear little girl—I've known you from your babyhood. Sally. Put the love Rupert bore you—and he loved you, Sally, better than anything on earth—for the love of God don't go in and look at him!"

"I don't understand." Something menacing, a smothering horror, a frightful presence approached, and, as it was, she felt her shrinking shoulder with a ghastly hand. She got to her feet and started across the room. He caught her before she could open the door and held her back.
